ARTICLE 9.

When either of the contracting Parties considers the case urgent it may apply for the provisional arrest of the criminal and the safe keeping of any objects relating to the offence.

Such request will be granted, provided the existence of a sentence or warrant of arrest is proved, and the nature of the offence of which the fugitive is accused is clearly stated.

The warrant of arrest to which this Article refers should be issued by the competent authorities of the country applying for extradition. The accused shall on arrest be sent as speedily as possible before a competent Magistrate.

ARTICLE 10.

In the examinations which they have to make in accordance with the foregoing stipulations, the authorities of the State applied to shall admit as valid evidence the sworn depositions or the affirmations of witnesses taken in the other State, or copies thereof, and likewise the warrants and sentences issued therein, and certificates of or judicial documents stating the fact of a conviction, provided the same are authenticated as follows :—

1. A warrant must purport to be signed by a Judge, Magistrate, or officer of the other State.
2. Depositions or affirmations, or the copies thereof, must purport to be certified under the hand of a Judge, Magistrate, or officer of the other State, to be the original depositions or affirmations, or to be the true copies thereof, as the case may require.
3. A certificate of or judicial document stating the fact of a conviction must purport to be certified by a Judge, Magistrate, or officer of the other State.
4. In every case such warrant, deposition, affimation, copy, certificate, or judicial document must be authenticated either by the oath of some witness, or by being sealed with the official seal of the Minister of Justice or some other Minister of the other State ; but any other mode of authentication for the time being permitted by the law of the country where the examination is taken may be substituted for the foregoing.

ARTICLE 11.

The extradition shall not take place unless the evidence be found sufficient according to the laws of the State applied to, either to justify the committal of the prisoner for trial, in case the crime had been committed in the territory of the said State, or to prove that the prisoner is the identical person convicted by the courts of the State which makes the requisition, and that the crime of which he has been convicted is one in respect of which extradition could, at the time of such conviction, have been granted by the State applied to. The fugitive criminal shall not be surrendered until the expiration of fifteen days from the date of his being committed to prison to await his surrender.

ARTICLE 12.

If the individual claimed by one of the two High Contracting Parties in pursuance of the present Treaty should be also claimed by one or several other Powers, his extradition shall be granted to that State whose demand is earliest in date.

ARTICLE 13.

If sufficient evidence for the extradition be not produced within two months from the date of the apprehension of the fugitive, or within such further time as the State applied to, or the proper tribunal thereof shall direct, the fugitive shall be set at liberty.

ARTICLE 14.

All articles seized which were in the possession of the person to be surrendered, at the time of his apprehension, shall, if the competent authority of the State applied to for the extradition has ordered the delivery thereof, be given up when the extradition takes place, and the said delivery shall extend not merely to the stolen articles, but to everything that may serve as a proof of the crime.

ARTICLE 15.

The High Contracting Parties renounce any claim for the reimbursement of the expenses incurred by them in the arrest and maintenance of the person to be surrendered and his conveyance till placed on board the ship : they reciprocally agree to bear such expenses themselves.

ARTICLE 16.

The stipulations of the present Treaty shall be applicable to the Colonies and foreign possessions of His Britannic Majesty, so far as the laws for the time being in force in such Colonies and foreign possessions respectively will allow.

The requisition for the surrender of a fugitive criminal who has taken refuge in any such Colony or foreign possession may be made to the Governor or chief authority of such Colony or possession by any person authorized to act in such Colony or possession as a consular officer of Siam.

Such requisitions may be disposed of, subject always, as nearly as may be, and so far as the laws of such Colonies or foreign possessions will allow, to the provisions of this Treaty, by the said Governors or chief authorities, who, however, shall be at liberty either to grant the surrender or to refer the matter to His Britannic Majesty's Government.

His Britannic Majesty shall, however, be at liberty to make special arrangements in the British Colonies and foreign possessions for the surrender of criminals from Siam who may take refuge within such Colonies and foreign possessions, on the basis, as nearly as may be, and so far as the laws of such Colonies or foreign possessions will allow, of the provisions of the present Treaty.

Requisitions for the surrender of a fugitive criminal emanating from any Colony or foreign possession of His Britannic Majesty shall be governed by the rules laid down in the preceding articles of the present Treaty.

ARTICLE 17.

The present Treaty shall come into force ten days after its publication in conformity with the forms prescribed by the laws of the High Contracting Parties. It may be terminated by either of the High Contracting Parties at any time on giving to the other six months' notice of its intention to do so.

The Treaty shall be ratified, and the ratifications shall be exchanged at London, as soon as possible.

In witness whereof the respective plenipotentiaries have signed the same, and have affixed thereto the seal of their arms.

Provided always that the operation of the said Acts shall be and remain suspended within the Dominion of Canada so long as an Act of the Parliament of Canada, being Part I of chapter 155 of "The Revised Statutes of Canada, 1906," and entitled "An Act respecting the Extradition of Fugitive Criminals," shall continue in force there, and no longer.

SUPREME COURT OF BRITISH GUIANA.

APPELLATE JURISDICTION.

THIS 29TH DAY OF DECEMBER, 1911.

MASSIAH, Appellant.

versus

NEISCHER, Respondent.

This is an appeal from a conviction on a charge of larceny of a cart wheel.

The reasons for appeal (shortly stated) are (1) that the decision was erroneous in law; (a) the charge (which was not amended) laying the ownership of the wheel in the respondent, while the evidence showed it was not his property; (b) and (c) no felonious intent on the part of the appellant having been proved he having explained how the wheel happened to be where found; (c) there not being proof of such recent possession as could support the charge; (d) and (f) the appellant's defence not being (as thought by the Magistrate) that the wheel was his, but his having received the wheel in good faith; (2) that the decision is wholly unwarranted by the evidence (a) there being no evidence of felonious intent, and (b) the appellant having received the wheel as one belonging to one de Freitas, his employer.

None of these reasons of appeal, is in my opinion sustainable. The respondent appears from the evidence of Mrs. Mordle to have been given absolute control over the wheel, which was put in his charge, he therefore had a "special property" in it and it might properly be described as his property. The Magistrate in his reasons for his decision in effect finds that the wheel in question was lost on the 24th September, and first seen by the respondent in the appellant's house on the 2nd October, that the wheel did not belong to the appellant, that he had no right to it and there was no mistake by him in the matter. He thus by necessary implication states his disbelief of the appellant's evidence that he innocently and in good faith took over the wheel with De Freitas' wo dcutting grant on the 1st August. I see no reason why th Magistrate could not properly arrive at this conclusion on the evidence; and in view of this finding, the interval of eight days between the loss of the wheel and its being seen in the defendant's house was having regard to the nature of the thing lost, so short as to render the case one of recent possession, and to justify the presumption that the appellant stole the wheel, i.e., took it with a felonious intent.

The decision of the Magistrate is affirmed and the appeal dismissed with costs.

HENRY A. BOVELL, C.J.

FRANKLIN (Lce.-Sgt.-Major of Police), Appellant.

versus

CAESAR JOHN, Respondent.

This is an appeal from a dismissal of a charge under Ord. 1 of 1864 (sec. 4) of acting without the Governor's licence as an agent for the collection of persons of the labouring class to proceed to another colony, viz., Dutch Guiana.

The Magistrate held that the words "and that such persons were actually on board of a vessel with the intention of leaving the colony" which occur at the end of sect. 5 of the Ordinance must be read with each of the alternatives set out in the preceding part of the section, and that to constitute the offence charged it must inter alia be shown that the persons dealt with by the alleged agent were on board of a vessel with the intention of leaving the colony. The Magistrate further held that Blackmore, the only one of such persons found on board, was not a person of the labouring class, and that he was not satisfied Blackmore intended to leave the colony or was provided with clothes as an inducement to do so, and he therefore dismissed the complaint.

The reason for appeal is that the decision was erroneous in law, it being clearly proved that the defendants (1) offered to engage persons of the labouring class to serve in some other colony or place, and (2) offered some inducement in the nature of a free passage, or the provision of clothes or other necessaries, or the payment of a sum of money by way of bounty, and that it was unnecessary to prove in addition that the said persons were actually on board of a vessel with the intention of leaving the colony.

A preliminary objection to the hearing of the appeal was taken, viz., that notice of appeal was not served in time.

In support of this an affidavit by Rosalind John, the respondent's sister, and one Matilda Sobers has with leave of the Court been filed and with the like leave, affidavits of one John Phillips and P. C. Lammy, in proof of due service of the notice and reasons of appeal have been laid over.

The onus of proving service within the 14 days prescribed by law lies on the appellant. In proof thereof he in the first instance filed an affidavit which alleges that the notice and reasons of appeal were sent to the respondent by registered letter, addressed to him at his residence 52, Austin Place, Stabroek, on the 12th April, which letter was on the same day delivered in the afternoon to one Matilda Sobers residing on the said lot, who undertook to deliver the letter to the respondent "who was absent at the time," and that the notice and reasons were also served on the respondent on the same day at 2 p.m., by delivering a duplicate to his sister at the said address "in his absence", which said notice and reasons she undertook to deliver to him.

Service on the 12th April, would have been in time, that being the last of the fourteen days allowed by law, and in the absence of rebutting evidence, the affidavit would be sufficient proof of due service. But Matilda Sobers in her affidavit says she gave the registered letter to Rosalind John, the respondent's sister who she "supposed would have given it to her brother;" and Rosalind John in her affidavit states that the respondent was not residing at lot 52 either on that day or previously, that she told the appellant when he came to effect service that her brother did not reside there nor did she know where he was, but the notice and reasons of appeal were first thrown at her and when she did not pick them up were placed on her shoulder, and that she did not see her brother till three weeks later. The affidavits of Phillips and Lammy tend to shew that for several weeks preceding the morning of the 12th April the respondent (even if not himself residing) had been staying with his sister at lot 52. But Phillips who occupies a room in the range on that lot adjoining that of the respondent's sister says he last saw him there on the evening of the 11th April and last heard him in his sister's room at about 5.45 a.m. on the 12th April and that he did not see or hear him again until a few days before the 28th May. And Lammy in his affidavit says he heard from a resident on the same lot on the 12th April that the respondent had left at 6 a.m. that morning and although he had seen him there frequently before he saw him again only about three weeks before the 14th June.

There is no enactment that the mere leaving of a notice of appeal and of reasons of appeal at a respondent's place of abode shall be conclusive proof of service and in the absence of such enactment the Court cannot so hold, even if (which on the affidavits is open to much doubt) it could be taken as proved that on the 12th April, lot 52 was the respondent's "place of abode." And in view of all the evidence, the inference that the notice left in the afternoon of 12th April in the respondent's absence at a place to which he did not return for some weeks reached the hands of the respondent on the 12th April, i.e., within the prescribed period cannot, I think, be drawn, as was done in the case of Cox v. Stanton et al., (13th April, 1904,) where the notice was left (not in the afternoon of the last day but) three days before the end of the prescribed period.

The appellant, therefore, has not discharged the onus lying on him and the appeal must be dismissed with costs.

The question whether the construction placed by the Magistrate on sect. 5 of the Ordinance is correct was fully argued (by agreement between counsel for both parties) and although a final decision of the point is not requisite in this case, it is, I think, desirable that the Court should express some opinion on the point, the acting Solicitor General having stated that some ruling on it is wished. The conclusion arrived at by the Magistrate, is in my opinion correct. The object of the Ordinance as indicated by the title (cf. Rossley v. Rawley, 1 Q.B.D. 466), is to prevent not the collection only but the collection and removal of emigrants from the colony, sect. 2 requires "agents" for that purpose to obtain a licence from the Governor before acting, and sect. 4 imposes a penalty on any one acting as such an agent without licence To obtain a conviction under that section it would be necessary to prove "agency", but to avoid the difficulty of strict proof thereof, sect. 5 provides that it shall be sufficient to prove certain facts only. The section declares it shall be sufficient to prove (a) "that the person charged," &c., (b) "and that he" &c., (c) "or that he" &c., (d) "and that such persons were actually on board a vessel with intention of leaving. The question is whether the two provisions distinguished above (though not so in the Ordinance as (c) and (d) are to be read together as forming one alternative or whether clause (d) is an element necessary to be proved in all cases. If this clause were an appendage to the previous clause only, the repetition of the word "that" would be unnecessary. Also, in that case the expression "a" vessel would be erroneous as the Imperial Passengers Acts would be infringed only if such persons were on board the particular vessel which was overladen with passengers. Nor would the addition of this clause under such circumstances be necessary. But it may well have been the intention of the Legislature, when dispensing with strict proof of agency, to require that some specific fact showing the removal of labourers from the colony was in progress should be proved, and that proof of a mere offer frequently verbal to take away labourers should be insufficient. The Ordinance being a penal one must receive a strict construction, and for these among other reasons, I think the Magistrate's view of the section is correct.

KING.

This is an appeal from the Stipendiary Magistrate of the Georgetown Judicial District who in a claim made by the appellant against the respondent for $28 37 as money received by him to and for her use and benefit and on accounts stated gave judgment for the respondent.

The evidence shows that appellant and respondent as executors of John William Bourne, deceased, accounted to the heirs, that the Estate is closed, that in the account so rendered and accepted is the following item "executors commission at 10% on $567.60—$56.75" which the defendant received in behalf of the plaintiff and himself, and that he has refused to pay plaintiff her half that is $28.37.

Counsel for the respondent submitted before the Magistrate that the rate of commission not having been approved of by the Supreme Court this action could not be brought. The Magistrate upheld this contention and this is the substantial ground of the present appeal.

Ordinance 9 of 1909 (section 29) directs that the executors shall be entitled to charge such commission as the Court may approve where a testator does not by his will direct what remuneration shall be paid. Without coming to the Court the heirs have approved of the payment to plaintiff and defendant of a commission of 10% and the present action is not brought by the heirs against the two executors or by plaintiff as executor against defendant, the other executor, but by the plaintiff in her individual character against the defendant in his individual character in respect of moneys received in her behalf. It is not open to the defendant to raise the defence set up.

The appeal is allowed—the decision of the Magistrate reversed and judgment entered for the plaintiff for $28.37, and costs.

LIMITED JURISDICTION.

THIS 3RD DAY OF JANUARY, 1912.

DAVIS.

This action is by way of opposition to the transport by the defendant of the eastern three-fourths of lot No. 13, in Canal No. 2, in the county of Demerara.

The evidence establishes that on or about the 9th November, 1910, the defendant sold to the plaintiff the whole of the said lot No. 13 for the sum of $75 which was paid to the defendant on the same day, that from that date the plaintiff has had possession and cultivated the said lot, and that the defendant has refused to give him transport.

This Court finds the opposition to be just, legal and well-founded and directs the defendant to advertise and pass transport of the said lot to the plaintiff within one month from the date of this judgment and in default of his doing so, directs that the same be done by the Registrar of the Court. The defendant must pay the costs of this action.

THIS 8TH DAY OF JANUARY, 1912.

versus
GIDDINGS.

This action is brought to recover the sum of $240 on a promissory note given by defendant and the defence is want of consideration.

The defendant states in his evidence that he did not sign the note, but that he paid plaintiff $240 in cash for the oxen and other articles.

This Court is satisfied that the note and not cash was given in payment and that as soon as the purchase was effected by defendant the oxen and other goods were transferred to the business carried on by Mrs. Small and Mrs. Giddings, the wives of the plaintiff and defendant respectively.

It is contended by counsel that the correspondence shows that plaintiff traded in his wife's name and that the consideration was plaintiff's own property brought into his partnership business.

The letters give good ground for such a suspicion, but it is denied by plaintiff who alleges that when in the colony he always acted as the agent of his wife. In the face of the evidence of defendant's wife—called by the defence—that Mrs. Small and not the plaintiff was her partner, this Court cannot hold otherwise.

Judgment for the plaintiff for $240 and costs.

M. J. BERKELEY, J.

BAILEY.

The plaintiff claims that the defendant be ordered to pass transport to him of an undivided part or share of and in lot No. 1 District (forming part of Plantation Paradise) situate on the east sea coast of the county of Demerary, which the defendant acquired by virtue of his marriage in community of property to his wife Eliza Bailey, born Hanover, one of the surviving heirs of her father, mother, and brother, Archy Hanover, Mimva Hanover and Noble Hanover respectively, and $50 damages.

The transport put in shows that the whole of this lot was the property of the said Archy Hanover, the father of the defendant's wife to whom he was married in community of goods.

It appears that on 19th November, 1910, the defendant agreed to sell his undivided share in this lot to the plaintiff for $28 and was paid $10 on account, the balance to be paid on the passing of the transport. The plaintiff, however, has failed to establish the title of the defendant to the land in question and therefore transport cannot be ordered.

The evidence shows that the plaintiff was asked to call at the chambers of defendant's counsel for his $10 as defendant was unable to carry out the agreement. This he neglected to do but in the meantime has reaped the product of the land.

There must be judgment for the plaintiff for $10—and under the circumstances set out—without costs.

2. The examiner reports as follows:—"The results of the Needlework Competition this year are disappointing. The samples sent up in each section are much below the average of former years. There is not one that could be classed as 'excellent.' Two or three schools show that they have been well taught, but the work seemed to require more practice to perfect it.

Of 150 candidates in section "A" six gained medals and fifty certificates. In section "B" 109 were examined and twenty-two gained certificates. In section "C" of 29 examined six got certificates. No work in section "B" or "C" reached the standard for a medal. Six candidates sent in section "D" specimens, but neither medal nor certificate could be awarded to any of them."

The Official Gazette

OF BRITISH GUIANA.

Published by Authority of His Excellency the Governor.

GEORGETOWN, SATURDAY, JANUARY 20TH, 1912.

Government Notice.

GOVERNMENT SECRETARY'S OFFICE,
Georgetown, Demerara,
19th January, 1912.

23. REFERRING to Government Notice No. 5 of the 3rd instant, notifying that the West India and Panama Telegraph Company have agreed to accept plain language telegrams from British Guiana at half rates on certain conditions, His Excellency the acting Governor directs the publication, for general information, of the conditions for regulating this new service :—

DEFERRED TELEGRAMS AT REDUCED RATES.

1. The sender of a private telegram in the Extra-European service may obtain the benefit of a reduction of 50 per cent. in the charge on condition that the telegram is written in plain language, and defined thereafter, and that it is not transmitted until after telegrams charged for at the full rate.

FORM AND HANDING IN.

2. Declaration by sender.—The sender must sign when handing in the telegram, a declaration giving a formal assurance that the text is entirely in plain language and that it does not bear any meaning other than that which appears on the face of it. The declaration must specify the language in which the telegram is written.

3. Supplementary Instructions.—The sender of a deferred telegram at reduced rates must insert before the address the supplementary instruction L C completed as is laid down in paragraph 4. This instruction is counted in the number of words charged for.

4. Form.—The text of deferred telegrams must be written entirely in plain language and must not contain any figures commercial marks, groups of letters or signs of punctuation or abbreviated expressions (Article VII. of the International Regulations.) Any telegram containing a succession of isolated letters, of numbers, of names or of words without connected meaning, and, generally, any telegram which does not in the opinion of the telegraph service bear an intelligible meaning on the face of it is not admitted to the benefit of the reduced rate. Registered addresses are accepted if accompanied by a text which makes their nature clear. Numbers must be written in words.

Telegrams without text are not admitted.

Telegrams at reduced rates must be written in French or one of the languages of the country of origin or destination specified by the Administrations concerned and authorised for International telegraphic correspondence in plain language. According as the language employed is French, a language of the country of origin or a language of the country of destination, the suplementary instruction L C is completed and becomes L C F, L C O or L C D. The use of two or more languages in the same telegram is not allowed.

The wording of the address and the signature of these telegrams is governed by the rules in force for ordinary telegrams.

Digitized by Google

5. Counting of Words.—The words in the address, in the text and in the signature are counted according to the rules in force for ordinary telegrams.

RATES AND CHARGES.

6. Régime.—Deferred telgrams at reduced rates are admitted in the service between countries in the European Régime and countries in the Extra-European Régime (including Senegal.) As regards the service between counties in the Extra-European Régime (including Senegal) except by special arrangement to the country, deferred telegrams are only admitted if the charge for the ordinary telegrams is not less than 1 franc per word.

7. Rates.—The terminal and land submarine cable transit rates in the case of deferred telegrams are reduced uniformly by 50 per cent.

When a deferred telegram is diverted in consequence of an interruption of route the rates which are shared pro rata are half those which would accrue to the different Administrations for a telegram charged for at the full rate if it were similarly diverted.

8. Application of full ordinary rates to irregular telegrams.—The Telegraphic Administrations reserve the right to refuse at the reduced rate any telegram which in their opinion is not in accordance with the foregoing conditions.

When the delivery office observes that a telegram bearing one of the supplementary instructions L C F or L C D does not comply with these conditions the telegram is treated in the same way as one containing irregular combinations.

9. Order of Transmission.—Deferred telegrams are only transmitted after non-urgent private telegrams and press telegrams. Those which have not reached their destination within a period of 24 hours from the time of handing in are transmitted in turn with telegrams charged for at the full rate.

10. Delivery.—Telegrams at reduced rates are delivered in turn with telegrams at full rates.

11. Special Services.—Telegrams at reduced rates may bear any of the supplementary instructions except that relating to urgency. The rates applicable to the various special services desired by the sender of a deferred telegrem (paid service telegrams conditions of delivery. R. P. T. C., etc.) are the same as in the case of ordinary telegrams. The corresponding supplementary instructions are charged for at the reduced rate. Telegraph money orders and maritime telegrams are not admitted at the reduced rate.

12. Reimbursement.—The period for reimbursement on account of delay in the case of a deferred telegram is in every case fixed at three times 24 hour.

13. Accounts.—The accounts are drawn up in accordance with the conditions set forth in Article LXXVI. of the International Regulations, each word in a deferred telegram being counted as half a word.

14. General Conditions.—Telegrams at reduced rates are subject to all the conditions of the International Regulations which do not conflict with the foregoing conditions.

J. HAMPDEN KING,
Acting Government Secretary.

SUPREME COURT OF BRITISH GUIANA.

GENERAL JURISDICTION.

THIS 2ND DAY OF JANUARY, 1912.

In re PEREIRA, et al.
SANTOS, et al.

Petition for leave to appeal.

This is a petition of the defendant Santos for conditional leave to appeal to H. M. in Council from the judgment of the Full Court of the 15th December, 1911. The amount in dispute being in excess of £500 sterling the petitioner is entitled to obtain conditional leave (O. in Council clause 2 (a)) and the only questions for decision are on what conditions such leave should be given, and whether the judgment appealed from should be carried out or execution thereon stayed pending the appellate proceedings.

Clause 6 of the Order-in-Council provides that the judgment appealed from shall be carried out or execution thereon stayed pending the appeal "as to the Court shall seem just." The clause does not expressly empower the Court, if execution is stayed, to require security from the appellant for payment of the money ordered by the judgment to be paid, and the express provision in the latter part of the clause, that if the other alternative is adopted and the judgment carried out, the respondent shall be required to give security to refund, appears to us, on the principle expressio unius exclusio alterius to show that no such power was intended to be or is by implication given. The Court, therefore, must in every case determine as to it seems just, on the facts before it, whether or not the judgment should be carried out, if this question is answered in the affirmative the respondent being required to give security. In our opinion, a judgment appealed from should, as a general rule, be carried out the rights of the parties being prima facie as declared by the judgment so long as it is not reversed or varied, and the required security being given to restore the fruits of that judgment, if the appeal be successful, no risk is run by the party appellant. Only where special circumstances exist, as e.g., where it would be impossible to restore the parties to their original position if the appeal be successful, should execution, we think, be stayed. This general rule accords with the one laid down in the previous Order-in-Council of the 20th June, 1831, (§ § 3 and 4) and with the rule followed in the English High Court of Justice in cases of appeal. In the present case no special circumstances exist, and the judgment being for payment of money only, the appellant if successful will on repayment of the same be placed in the same position as before. We, therefore, direct the judgment to be carried into execution on the respondent entering into good and sufficient security to the satisfaction of the Court in the amount of such judgment and costs by bond with two sureties to the satisfaction of the Court, or by deposit of money in Court, or by way of mortgage on immovable property for the due performance of such order as H. M. in Council may think fit to make on the appeal.

The Court grants leave to appeal on the conditions (1) that the petitioner do within three months from the date hereof enter into good and sufficient security to the satisfaction of this Court in the amount of £500 by bond, deposit or mortgage as aforesaid, for the due prosecution of the appeal and the payment of all such costs as may become payable to the respondent in the event of the appellants not obtaining an order granting him final leave to appeal, or of the appeal being dismissed for non-prosecution, or of H. M. in Council ordering the appellant to pay the respondent's costs of this appeal; and (2) that the appellant do within 5 months from the date hereof take the necessary steps for the purpose of procuring the preparation of the record and the despatch thereof to England, which will include the obtaining final leave to appeal.

The period of 5 months is given in this case in view of its being the first under the new provisions in the Order-in-Council as to the duty of the Registrar and the respondent in connection with the preparation of the record, and in view of the possibility of an application to the Court being necessary, but this must not be regarded as establishing a precedent to always allow so long a period.

The party appellant or respondent required by this decision to give security shall give notice to the opposite party of the security he proposes to give, and such party shall within four days approve or object thereto, and such approval or objection shall be initialed by the solicitor of such party, and the matter shall then be brought to the notice of the Registrar that it may be dealt with by the Court, in Chambers or otherwise with or without any further attendance of the parties as may be deemed necessary.

Miscellaneous.

SURGEON GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Georgetown, Demerara,
22nd December, 1911.

THE following very simple and efficient method of purifying and sterilizing water is recommended by Drs. Nasmith and Graham, Chemists of the Board of Health of Ontario, Canada.

J. E. GODFREY,
Surgeon General.

A SIMPLE METHOD OF PURIFYING ALMOST ANY INFECTED WATER FOR DRINKING PURPOSES. BY G. G. NASMITH, M.A., PH.D. AND R. R. GRAHAM, M.B.

Since 1897, when Dr. Woodhead sterilized the water supply system of Maidstone, England, by a solution of chloride of lime during a typhoid outbreak, this agent has been used more or less spasmodically for similar purposes. In 1898 Kanthack showed that .3 to .36 parts of free chlorine in one hundred thousand parts of sewage effluent reduced the number of bacteria from innumerable to fifty per cubic centimetre.

Two years ago Jersey City, in the United States, installed the first system for continuously purifying its municipal water supply by means of chlorine in the form of chloride of lime, the amount of available chlorine being .3 parts per million parts of water. The success of this method for one year has established its efficacy and similar plants are now being installed at various other places. The method is so cheap, so efficient and the agent used so harmless that there would seem to be a great field for its usefulness in this and other countries. We have shown that .3 parts of chlorine in a million parts of water or roughly one pound of chloride of lime to a million pounds of water (500 tons or 100,000 gallons) will not only destroy typhoid and colon bacilli but practically all bacteria in water except a few spore formers.

It is a valuable means of sterilizing water because chloride of lime may be bought almost anywhere, is very cheap, in the infinitesimal quantity used and not only is it absolutely harmless but leaves no taste in the water and with a few directions may be used by anyone to render an infected water safe for drinking purposes.

The writers have worked out a simple method which can be used by miners, prospectors or campers in Northern Ontario or elsewhere to purify immediately and on the spot, any water which may be dangerous to drink. For armies in the field such a method should prove invaluable for every soldier could easily carry a couple of ounces of the chloride of lime and sterilize his own drinking water; hence the experience with Enteric Fever in South Africa need never be repeated.

The method is as follows:—

1. Take a teaspoonful of chloride of lime containing about one-third available chlorine and remove the excess of powder by rolling a pencil or other round object along the top of the spoon or by flattening it with a penknife blade so that the excess will be squeezed off.

2. Dissolve the teaspoonful of chloride of lime in a cupful of water, making sure that all lumps are thoroughly broken up, and to it, in any convenient receptacle, add three more cupfuls of water.

3. Stir up the mixture, allow to stand for a few seconds in order to let any particles settle and this stock solution, if kept in a tightly stoppered bottle, may be used for four or five days and add one teaspoonful of this milky stock solution to two gallons of the water to be purified in a pail or other receptacle. Stir thoroughly in order that the weak chlorine solution will come into contact with all of the bacteria and allow to stand for ten minutes. This will give approximately one-half part of free chlorine to a million parts of water and will effectually destroy all typhoid and colon bacilli or other dysentery-producing bacilli in the water. The water will be without taste or odour and the trace of free chlorine added rapidly disappears.

The writers have followed this procedure repeatedly, using only the simple apparatus mentioned, consisting of a teaspoon, a cup and a two gallon pail. The water in the pail has been inoculated with Typhoid and Colon bacilli and examined before and after chlorination. The result was invariably the same, namely, that all Typhoid and Colon bacilli were destroyed.

Chloride of lime deteriorates rapidly when kept in cardboard packages or exposed to air.

If the chloride of lime powder be kept in a tightly stoppered bottle it will retain its strength for a long period. The prospector would only need to carry two small bottles, one for the powder and one for the stock solution.

It is very important that the stock solution should be thoroughly mixed with the water to be purified in order that no bacteria may escape the chlorine.

Silt or mud will not materially affect the action of the chlorine. The chlorine will not, however, enter lumps or particles of organic matter, so that if such material is present it should be strained off or allowed to settle and the clear water used for sterilizing.

GEORGETOWN, SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 3RD, 1912.

Government Notice.

GOVERNMENT SECRETARY'S OFFICE,
GEORGETOWN, DEMERARA,
49. 2nd February, 1912.

THE following Bill, which it is proposed to introduce into the Court of Policy, is hereby published for general information.

By Command,

J. HAMPDEN KING,
Acting Government Secretary.

THE SUMMARY CONVICTION OFFENCES (PROCEDURE) ORDINANCE, 1893, AMENDMENT BILL, 1912.

EXPLANATORY MEMORANDUM.

At the present time when a person is arrested without a warrant for a summary conviction offence the police have power to grant bail at once, but only if he cannot be taken before a Magistrate within twenty-four hours.

The result is that a person arrested in the evening after the Magistrate's Court has adjourned, cannot be granted police bail, as he can be taken before the Magistrate next morning, and unless he can find a Magistrate to bail him, he will have to remain in custody all night. If however he is arrested on a Saturday night, or in a country place where the Magistrate will not sit for a few days, the police can grant bail.

The object of this Bill is to remove this restriction and to enable the police to grant bail in all minor cases, and thus prevent persons being kept in custody all night when charged with some trivial offence.

Persons charged with indictable offences or serious summary conviction offences, can only be bailed by a Magistrate, and it is not proposed to alter the law in this respect.

A BILL ENTITLED "AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND THE "SUMMARY CONVICTION OFFENCES (PROCEDURE) "ORDINANCE, 1893, WITH RESPECT TO BAIL."

BE it enacted by the Governor of British Guiana, with the advice and consent of the Court of Policy thereof, as follows :—

Procedure as to bail where offender is taken into custody without warrant.

1. A person taken into custody without warrant for a summary conviction offence shall be brought before a Magistrate as soon as practicable after he is so taken into custody, and in the meantime any officer of Police or non-commissioned officer of Police may inquire into the case, and, except where the offence appears to such officer or non-commissioned officer to be of a serious nature, shall discharge the prisoner, upon his entering into a recognizance, with or without a surety or sureties, for a reasonable amount to appear before the Court at the time and place specified in the recognizance.

Repeal. No. 12 of 1893.

2. Section seventy-one of the Summary Conviction Offences (Procedure) Ordinance, 1893, is hereby repealed.

Short Title and Construction. No. 12 of 1893.

3. This Ordinance may be cited as the Summary Conviction Offences (Procedure) Ordinance, 1893, Amendment Ordinance, 1912, and shall be read as one with the Summary Conviction Offences (Procedure) Ordinance, 1893.

The Official Gazette
OF BRITISH GUIANA.

Published by Authority of His Excellency the Governor.

GEORGETOWN, WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 7TH, 1912.

Government Notice.

GOVERNMENT SECRETARY'S OFFICE,
Georgetown, Demerara,
6th February, 1912.

51. HIS Excellency the Acting Governor directs the publication, for general information, of the report on the Mosquito Survey of Georgetown, 1911 :—

REPORT ON MOSQUITO SURVEY OF GEORGETOWN.

1. As long ago as June, 1909, it was proposed to make a close examination of Georgetown with reference to the presence and distribution of mosquitoes in the city.

2. Difficulties arose as to the right of entry on premises and it became necessary to await the passing of a mosquito Ordinance bestowing powers of entry. This was achieved in September, 1910.

3. This survey was begun in December, 1910, and finished in September, 1911, and was carried out by the following persons duly authorised by the Honourable the Surgeon General :—The Government Bacteriologist, the Assistant Government Bacteriologist, Dr. Duncan and two skilled Laboratory Attendants specially trained for the work.

4. In spite of the size and great extent of this city of 60,000 inhabitants, it was decided to enter, examine and report upon every premises, lot, yard, etc., within its boundaries and no premises were left unvisited. The Parks and other open spaces, Government buildings, Barracks, etc., were visited and reported upon. The trenches in various parts of the city and outskirts were systematically examined as to the conditions under which they were breeding or likely to breed mosquitoes. In addition certain pastures and waste lands lying to the windward side of the city were also surveyed.

5. The procedure adopted was based on the card index system. Each lot or set of premises was given a card on the back of which the necessary details were recorded while the observer was actually in the yard ! nothing was left to memory and errors as far as possible eliminated. In the majority of instances specimens were taken of the larvæ and pupæ found which were subsequently bred out in the laboratory. The adult mosquito was then carefully identified and this further information added to the card.

6. Special notice was directed to the kind of mosquito larvæ or egg found, the nature of the places in which breeding was actually occurring, to potential breeding places (i.e., where breeding might occur at times other than that of this visit of inspection.)

Records were also made of the condition of the vats, the extent and efficiency of screening and also of the general condition of the yards.

7. During the progress of this survey as opportunity occurred occasion was taken to interest the people in this subject and numerous (50 to 60) small lectures delivered.

8. Two thousand five hundred and sixty premises were entered and examined and of these fourteen hundred and ninety were found to be breeding mosquitoes at the time of inspection.

9. A detailed statement of the above particulars with respect to each lot and half lot occupied has been tabulated and forwarded to the Honourable the Surgeon General.

10. The following table shows concisely the various districts of the city, the time of the year when examined, the number of premises, the number and percentage of those breeding mosquitoes, the number of premises breeding Stegomyia fasciata, Culex fatigans, Anopheles (Cellia albipes) and other mosquitoes.

From this it will be seen that all parts of the city are affected alike; premises of the rich and poor are equally involved.

11. The following table indicates the number of vats screened, defectively screened and totally unscreened, the number of premises with potential breeding-places and also the number of these premises kept in a disgraceful condition.

12. The Anopheline mosquito (nearly always Cellia albipes occasionally argyrotarsus) were found breeding in nearly all trenches where overgrown with vegetation both in the city and environs. Where no vegetation was permitted, no anopheline larvæ were discovered. These mosquitoes were also found breeding in the hollowed out stumps of trees which had been cut down in the lots and by the roadside. Numerous anopheline larvæ may be found during the rainy seasons in the small grass-grown cross-drains of the Queenstown District. They may occasionally be met with in cocoanut shells and in the grass-grown pools and trenches around the Barracks.

13. The developmental forms of the various Culicine mosquitoes were most frequently met with and the breeding-places may be summed up as follows :—

Stegomyia fasciata (Stegomyia calopus) was found breeding in vats, water barrels, tubs, tins, pots, cisterns and defective gutters in the majority of the premises infected including the river wharves and the premises on the Railway line. The breeding-places were always close to human habitations and were never found in trenches or unoccupied land.

Culex fatigans was found breeding in vats, tanks, barrels, tubs and old tins on about one-tenth of the premises visited. Culex confirmatus was found once in a pond in Charlestown. Melanconion atratus was found breeding in open trenches and ponds covered with vegetation such as in Thomas Street, in the pools of the Railway line, the "Governor's Fish Pond" near the Immigration Depôt and the trenches by Kelly's Dam.

Culicelsa taeniorhynchus was a frequent habitant of trenches more especially those by the Military Barracks, Kelly's Dam and the Sea Wall.

14. Of the Aedine mosquitoes only one specimen was found, viz :—Aedioymia squammipenna. This was found breeding in trenches and ponds covered by vegetation in Thomas Street, the "Governor's Fish Pond" near the Immigration Depôt and by Kelly's Dam.

15. In the vats, barrels and tubs the larvæ found were almost always Stegomyia fasciata or Culex fatigans.

16. In old tins, broken crockery, bottles, calabashes, cocoanut shells, fallen palm sheaths, etc., almost always the larvæ found were those of Stegomyia fasciata and Culex fatigans. Occasionally under these circumstances Culex similis, Culicelsa taeniorhynchus or Culex confirmatus were found.

17. In the trenches when cleansed of vegetation no evidence of mosquito breeding were found but where vegetation covered the surface numerous larvæ of Anophelines, Aediomyia squammipenna and Melanconion atratus were discovered.

18. The "Governor's Fish pond" near the Immigration Depôt illustrates excellently the influence of vegetation in giving protection to the larvæ from the ubiquitous predaceous fish (Girardinus poeciloides). When cleared of vegetation frequent examination failed to reveal larvæ. The presence of larvæ was coincident with the growth of vegetation.

19. In the trenches and open lands to the windward side of the city where vegetation is associated with the water, larvæ of Anophelines, Culicelsa taeniorhynchus, Aediomyia squammipenna and Melanconion atratus were readily found.

20. Those premises on which potential breeding-places were found numbered 1,848 or 70.9 per cent. of all premises visited. While many such potential breeding-places were defectively screened vats, old pots and tins by far the great majority were barrels. On no less than 1,203 premises were one or more barrels holding either rain water or the peaty water from the Lamaha Conservancy. On only 11.5 per cent. of those premises was any attempt at screening a barrel shown, and on the greater number of this small minority the screening (generally very defective) was only vouchsafed to one or two out of numerous barrels.

21. The systematic inspection of the vats (this does not refer to iron cisterns or tanks) shows that 63.9 per cent. were effectively screened. One thousand three hundred and ninety-six vats had more or less defective covers nullifying any beneficial effect of screening. In several instances pieces of wood were used to prop open an otherwise efficient vat cover thus rendering the purpose of the cover useless.

22. In many vats an efficient cover had been put on and then completely neglected; the sun drying the unseasoned wood caused warping and the production of large cracks.

23. Eighty-eight vats were found in which there was no attempt at screening.

24. A most serious disadvantage under which the inhabitants of this city allow themselves to labour is the excess of vegetation and litter in the yards and lots. No less than two hundred and sixty-one premises were kept in a condition which can only be described as disgraceful. The exclusion of the sun keeps the premises damp and dark and provides excellent cover and breeding places for mosquitoes, rats, and other noxious insects, vermin, etc. The exclusion of fresh air and the general dampness encourage and aid the spread of Tuberculosis.

25. The extraordinary collection on some premises of old tins and other worthless rubbish giving rise to stagnant water has to be seen to be believed.

26. The city of Georgetown is richly supplied not only with mosquitoes but also with convenient and comfortable breeding-places. It seems almost impossible to realise that during the wet season over 70 per cent. of all premises in this city are breeding countless myriads of these pests and that during the dry season nearly 60 per cent. are equally incriminated.

27. This state of affairs occurring as it does in a city priding itself on being up-to-date is scarcely to be credited and reveals the urgent necessity for vigorous and prompt action by those responsible for the health of the city.

28 We have no hesitation whatever in stating that over 90 per cent. of all the mosquitoes swarming in the city are bred in the yards of the city itself and further that this is easily preventible by the employment of commonsense and kindly persistence in overcoming ignorance and apathy.

Individual effort as at present exercised is but a minute drop in the ocean of what should be universal activity.

29. Undoubtedly the presence of numerous unscreened barrels contributes most of this state of affairs and the close screening of a barrel and the provision of a tap near the bottom should be a sine qua non for even tolerating their existence.

30. Much has been done towards vat screening as the following resumè shows but a great deal of attention is required to be directed to the water containing barrel.

31. The old Public Health Act contained no reference to anti-mosquito measures so in 1907 by-laws relating to the screening of vats, etc., as a preventative against mosquitoes were promulgated. They provided that all "vats, tanks or other vessels" should be screened with mosquito-proof wire-netting or other suitable material so as to prevent the entrance or exit of mosquitoes. The work of screening the vats, tanks and all other such vessels was to be done by the owners of the properties on which they are situated and to be completed within three months.

32. In 1908 it appears from the Town Superintendent's report that about 1,300 vats were already screened being about 35 per cent. of the total number but the barrels and other small water receptacles of which there were 2,500 seemed hopeless.

33. In 1909 a Public Notice was issued by the Mayor and Town Council notifying property-owners and householders that the vat-screening regulations of 1907 were to be rigidly enforced and that "all persons failing by the 15th July next to comply with such regulations in respect to the efficient screening of tanks, vats, barrels, and other vessels used for the storage of water will be proceeded against as the law directs."

34. The Town Superintendent reports for 1909 that 2,256 vats or rather over 50 per cent. were screened and 2,069 unscreened, exclusive of barrels and other small storage vessels. He states "we have recently had some half dozen prosecutions for non-compliance with the screening regulations by way of stirring up the dilatory property-owners to take action in the desired direction."

35. In 1910 the Town Superintendent reports that 3,474 vats or about 77 per cent.

Digitized by Google

were screened and 955 unscreened. He states that "the prejudice against screening being very strong all manner of ills being feared as the result of screening and only the pressure of the law when brought to bear has the effect of getting the screening done." There were 25 prosecutions instituted with fines aggregating $53.

36. The extent to which this city is invaded by mosquitoes and the reason for this invasion are obvious and unless persistent and well directed efforts are utilised against the promiscuous use of barrels and other small water receptacles this dangerous pest will remain.

37. The danger of mosquitoes to the community has been recognised frequently and was specially emphasised by the Commission appointed by the Governor to enquire into the general mortality of the colony.

38. The report of this Commission (1906) shows the death-rate of Georgetown to be as follows:—

	Registrar General (for Georgetown and Environs.)	Health Officer, Georgetown, (for Georgetown only).
1899–1903.	40.5 per thousand	33.4 per thousand.
1904–1908.	45.2 per thousand.	34.6 per thousand.

The latter figures (1904-1908) for Georgetown have been kindly supplied by Dr. Wishart, the Medical Officer of Health for the city, while those of the Registrar General have been obtained from his Annual Report.

39. The Commission stated that indirectly Malarial and Filarial diseases were among the principal causes of the high mortality of the colony (section 72). Five sections 73, 75-78) were specially devoted to specification of the requisite methods of dealing with mosquito-breeding places.

40. In February, 1906, Dr. Wallbridge wrote a vigorous memorandum on the subject of mosquitoes pointing out the duty of the Town Council to act now that the facts had been proved.

41. He pointed out that much had been done in the way of drainage and the removal of rubbish and proceeds to show how the householders can assist by doing anti-mosquito work themselves. In March, 1909, Dr. Wallbridge wrote again emphasising the responsibility of the Mayor and Town Council for this unsatisfactory condition.

42. In September, 1910, an Ordinance was passed by the Legislature to provide for the destruction of mosquitoes which imposed on the owner of premises the duty of keeping tanks, vats, barrels and other vessels used for storing water and all gutters and water pipes in such a condition as not to breed mosquitoes. The occupier has the duty of keeping premises clear of bottles, tins, etc., which may retain water and so breed mosquitoes. The presence of mosquito larvæ is evidence of an offence against the Ordinance. Powers of entry and powers of prosecution are also regulated.

43. It is obvious from the foregoing that the whole of the city of Georgetown is by ignorance and apathy permitted to remain a vast breeding-place for countless hordes of disease bearing mosquitoes, that these mosquitoes affect most gravely the high mortality of the city and remain as a severe menace to its health and finally that ample opportunity and ample powers exist for remedying this inconceivable and extraordinary state of affairs.

SUPREME COURT OF BRITISH GUIANA.

LIMITED JURISDICTION.

THIS 31ST DAY OF JANUARY, 1912.

BLACKMAN,
versus
CURTIS, CAMPBELL & CO.

The plaintiff in this action claims $600 for damages for a fractured foot, the injury to which he alleges was caused by the negligence and carelessness of the defendants and their servants.

It appears from the evidence that the plaintiff was in the employ of the defendants as Captain of the punt England, but on the day when the injury was sustained, i.e., the 28th February, 1911, was temporarily engaged, in the same employ, as Captain of the punt Canada. As such he was receiving bags of sugar into the punt, which was being loaded from the wharf of the defendants at La Penitence.

The procedure followed on this occasion, as on other occasions, was, apparently, to load the sugar into the punt by means of a plank or shoot, and after a sufficient number of bags had been so shot into the punt, to then discontinue the use of the plank or shoot and to "dump" or heave over the remainder of the bags of sugar on to the bed of bags of sugar formed by those previously shot into the punt. For the purposes of the loading, and packing, of the bags of sugar there were employed gangs of porters on the wharf, and in the punt itself were the Captain (plaintiff), the mate and two or three other men.

The case for the plaintiff is that at a certain time in the loading, and before shooting had been discontinued, and dumping begun, he was instructed by the wharfinger of the defendants to brace the punt closer in to the wharf, that he and the mate Langa, or White, as he is also called, left that part of the punt where they were receiving the bags of sugar by means of the shoot, to perform this duty, that on their return the mate having taken up his former position, and he being about to do so also, as he stepped from the gunwale of the punt, nearest the wharf, on to the bags of sugar, on his way to join the mate, the shoot not having been removed, a bag of sugar—the first to be so dealt with, he says,—was "dumped" from the wharf and he was struck by it, the result of the blow being to throw him down, and his left foot getting between two bags of sugar, he sustained a contused and lacerated wound on the inner side of the left foot, and a fracture of the third metatarsal bone. He was taken to the Public Hospital, and on the 5th March, 1911—5 days after—he left the hospital, returning to it on the 28th June, 1911, and was discharged on the 18th August, 1911, his left leg having been amputated.

When plaintiff left the hospital on the 5th March, it was against the will and advice of the doctor. At that time Dr. Ramdeholl says "he was not all right—"the wound was healing, but he was still limping, "he could walk, but with a limp." The doctor says the bone was not exposed, as was stated by plaintiff and his other witnesses, but there was much swelling, which subsided in two or three days. He further states that "four weeks would have seen him all "right, perhaps even three weeks. Would be able to "work then, if bone well united, but foot not quite "as good as before the injury. It was a small fracture."

There is conflict of evidence, usual in such cases, but the Court has no difficulty in concluding that the shoot had been removed, and "dumping" had already begun when there was a stoppage of work to brace in the punt, and it was on the resumption of work that the accident occurred. The plaintiff himself says that "the plank or shoot was resting in the punt some 3½ feet from the stern of the punt," and this entirety coincides with the evidence of the witnesses for the defence who all swear that the plank or shoot had been moved from the middle of the punt right to the stern before the dumping began. And in no part of the evidence for the plaintiff is it shown that the plank or shoot had been removed either at the time of, or immediately before, the order to brace in the punt was given, in which case the fair presumption that dumping had not begun before the accident might have arisen.

In fact, the plaintiff's evidence as to the spot where the plank was when the accident occurred is directly at variance with the evidence of his witnesses all of whom say differently. Springer, for example, says "the shoot was at the after-part of the punt, "about 14 feet from the stern." Miles says it was 17 feet from the stern gunwale and Robinson says, "the "plank was amidships towards the stern, resting on "bags. Can't say how many feet from stern the "plank was lying."

There is also a conflict of evidence between Springer and Miles, two of the plaintiff's witnesses, as regards the place where plaintiff sustained the injury, in relation tothe shoot. Springer says that plaintiff had just passed under the shoot when struck and that plaintiff could have got to his former position by stepping from the gunwale of the punt on to the sugar bags without going under the shoot, while Miles, on the other hand, swears that plaintiff had not yet reached the shoot when the bag struck him, was then three feet to the south of it, that plaintiff could not have stepped on to the bags before he got to shoot as it was a distance off, and he would have had to go under the shoot. The plaintiff says that he had passed under the shoot when he was struck, and this is, in effect, what Oxley says also.

In regard to the point as to whether due notice was given that the dumping was about to recommence after its cessation to enable the punt to be braced in, here again there is conflict of evidence, but in view of the evidence given as to the usual practice in matters of this kind, it appears to the Court it is most unlikely there would have been a departure from such practice, and that the usual call from above, and reply by the mate Langa, must have been given before the bag of sugar, which caused the injury, was thrown over.

It is clear, from the evidence, that the porters on the wharf were in the employ of the defendants, and so was the plaintiff. As regards the mate Langa (or White), he states he is the mate of the punt "England," but was employed on the day in question as mate of the punt "Canada." He gives the following evidence: "the Captain employs me, the firm pays the Captain and he pays me," and in answer to counsel for the plaintiff he says "the Captain employs me—I am not in the Company's employ—I can't say who pays my wages." In view of the evidence of the plaintiff as to his obeying the orders of the wharfinger, and the wharfinger's admission that he "ordered the men in the punt (one of whom was the mate) to pull her (the punt) closer to the wharf," and also the plaintiff's evidence as to the average amount per week he received as wages, and also the evidence of the wharfinger as to the average weekly payment of wages to the plaintiff, it is evident that the mate is under the control of the defendants, and that his wages do not come out of the Captain's pocket, but that the Captain is merely the person engaging the mate, who is paid out of funds provided by the defendants. He is, therefore, a servant of the defendants, who are responsible for any damage which may have been caused by the default or neglect of their servants in doing any acts on account of the defendants.

The Court has, therefore, before it a case in which a servant of the defendants has received certain injury by the throwing on him of a bag of sugar by certain other servants of the defendants. Those servants swear, and the Court believes them, that they gave the usual intimation before throwing and received a reply from some one in the punt, on receipt of which they were justified in throwing over the bag of sugar, and so far as these particular servants are concerned, they were, in the opinion of the Court, not negligent nor careless. Then arise the questions (a) was the mate, also a servant of the defendants, who gave the signal from the punt which resulted in the bag being thrown over, guilty of negligence or carelessness; or (b) was the plaintiff guilty of such contributary negligence as to debar him from recovering, for no man can complain of an injury which his own negligence and want of care have contributed to bring upon him; or (c) though the plaintiff may have been guilty of negligence, and although that negligence may have contributed to the accident which is the subject of this action, could the defendants, in the result, by the exercise of ordinary care and diligence, have avoided the mischief which happened, in which case the plaintiff's negligence would not excuse them.

The Court is of opinion that the proximate cause —the causa causans—of the accident was the reply given by the mate to the call of the porters on the wharf, which resulted in the bag being thrown over, causing the injury, and it can see no great negligence, if any, on the part of the plaintiff. Work had been discontinued, and plaintiff and the mate, in obedience to the orders of the wharfinger, had gone to brace in the punt closer to the wharf. Having done this, the mate returned, followed by the plaintiff, and resumed his former position, and seeing the plaintiff coming on the gunwale, unseen from above, and hearing the call from above, it was his duty to have refrained from giving the return call "come over" just as the plaintiff stepped on to the bags of sugar. The plaintiff says he heard no cry, and this is quite possible. He, certainly, had a right to expect that work would not recommence until he had resumed his former position alongside the mate, and the fact, as suggested by the defence, that if he had walked a slightly different way over the bags than that which he took would have taken him out of the line of fire, cannot in the opinion of the Court be held, in the absence of any obligation on him to proceed by a certain route, to amount to contributory negligence, and certainly not such negligence as to debar him from recovering damages. It is to the mate's credit that he honestly affirms it was his fault. His evidence, on this point, is "the men (those on wharf) "could not see him. When Estwick said "under! "below!" Blackman (plaintiff) was just stepping "on to the first sugar bag. I said "Come over." "I ought to have waited until he came to his place "by my side but I did not." The case of Weddovitch v. Donald Currie & Co., 6. E.D.C., 177, cited for the defence, differs materially from the present case inasmuch as in Weddovitch's case there had been no cessation of work, while in the present case there had been cessation.

The exception of "common employment" in English law, i.e., that a master is not liable to his servant for injury sustained by the latter through the negligent acts of any other person employed in the same service, is based on the assumption that a servant, when he engages to serve a master undertakes as between himself and his master to run all the ordinary risks of the service, including the risk of negligence upon the part of a fellow servant, when he is acting in the discharge of his duty as servant of him who is the common master of both.

In Roman Durch law this exception is not recognised. Our law sees no reason why an exception should be made to the general rule that a master is liable for wrongs done by his servant within the scope of his employment. And even in English law this exception has been modified by legislation, notably by the Workmen's Compensation Act.

In these circumstances, the defendants are liable in damages. The amount claimed is, no doubt, based on the fact that plaintiff has lost his leg, while by the pleadings it is claimed as damages for a fractured foot. The fact that plaintiff has lost his leg cannot be taken into account in assessing the damages which the defendants ought to pay. Plaintiff has lost his leg entirely by his own act in leaving the Public Hospital when he did, i.e., five days after he sustained the fracture, against the will and advice of the doctor, and when on the high road to complete recovery. All the defendants are liable for is to compensate plaintiff for his pecuniary loss caused by his foot being fractured, and for his pain and bodily suffering. The evidence of the doctor, in addition to that already referred to, is "up to the time he left (the hospital), "there was nothing to indicate trouble with the "fracture. If he had remained it would not have "been necessary to have his leg amputated, every-"thing would have gone all right."

The loss of the leg, therefore, is not sufficiently "concatenated" with the wrong and is not the proximate result of the wrong.

Plaintiff's evidence is that he worked for anything between $5 to $12 per week, and Mr. Sherriff, the wharfinger, says his average earnings were $3 to $4 per week. The doctor says "four weeks would have "seen him all right, or perhaps three. Would have "been able to work then, if bone well united, but "foot not quite as good as before the injury." In this connection the Court has before it the fact that five days after the bone was fractured the plaintiff was walking about with a limp. It would therefore seem not to have been a very serious matter. In fact the doctor says it was a small fracture, and the ultimate results would not have been very disastrous.

The Court assesses the damages payable to plaintiff at $50 for which amount judgment is given.

The case is one that should not have been brought in this Court, but in the Magistrate's Court, and plaintiff therefore is not entitled to costs.

J. K. DARBELL HILL, Actg. J.

GENERAL CIVIL JURISDICTION.

THIS 1ST DAY OF FEBRUARY, 1912.

In re Petition of SIMERKIE.

The petitioner in her petition alleges that she employed Mr. B. C. Belmonte as her solicitor in an action to be brought against one Ramyard to recover $480 on a promissory note, that judgment was obtained and a levy made on the property of the defendant in execution of the judgment but on the 9th October, 1911, she caused the levy to be withdrawn and discontinued the services of Mr. Belmonte, because his demands for money were unreasonable, she having already paid him $152.20 and he requiring additional payment, that a pawn ticket for a string of gold beads worth $50 was found in the place where the levy was made and was taken possession of by Mr. Belmonte and is detained by him although she has demanded it, that the sum of $152.20 was paid Mr. Belmonte to defray all disbursements in the said action and the fees, not only of Mr. Belmonte, but also of any barrister whom he might employ to represent her in the action, but that Mr. Marshall, the barrister employed, has informed her that his retaining fee is $75 and that Mr. Belmonte has not paid him for his services. And the petitioner prays that Mr. Belmonte be ordered to return her the pawn ticket or pay her $50, the value of the beads pledged, and that he pay Mr. Marshall $75 and that on Mr. Belmonte's failing to comply with such order, he be struck off the Roll of the Court.

The respondent, Mr. Belmonte, states in his report on the petition, that he was engaged by the petitioner as her solicitor in the action on the terms that he should obtain the services of a barrister-at-law and pay all fees and disbursements, she giving him as security for payment of his bill of costs a promissory note for $240 payable on demand which note was given on the 12th September, 1911, that he instructed Mr. Marshall but did not agree to pay him $75 or any fixed sum, that he has received from the petitioner the sum of $28 only that being paid to defray the costs of the levy, that the pawn ticket was given to him as further security of payment of his costs; that the petitioner's alleged reasons for terminating his employment and withdrawing the levy, are untrue; that his disbursements have exceeded the $28 paid him; and that his bill of costs amounts to $154.10, inclusive of the cost of taxation.

In her counter-report, the petitioner denies the making of the note and alleges that the agreement with Mr. Belmonte was that he would conduct the action and make the necessary disbursements, and that in the event of judgment being given in her favour and her recovering the amount thereof, he should be remunerated by taking one-half of the proceeds of the judgment; that the sum of $152.20 was paid to Mr. Belmonte, as he made her believe it was required to pay Mr. Marshall the fee he claimed of $75, which fee she, on the reporter's advice, agreed to pay, that the sum of $123 part of the $152 20 was paid to Mr. Belmonte on the 16th September, to meet, inter alia, that fee, the residue of the said sum of $152.20, namely, $29.20, having been paid on the 27th September, 1911, to defray the costs of levy; and that as to the pawn ticket, she never agreed that the respondent should hold it in pledge as mentioned by him.

The first question for decision is, did the petitioner pay to Mr. Belmonte $152.20 as she alleges? The petitioner, in her evidence, says that Mr. Belmonte made her withdraw money from the Post Office Savings Bank on the 16th of September, the day when the case was coming on in Court and before the case was heard, Bissoon, his clerk (also called Bissoon Dial) and one Boodran accompany her; that she drew about $205 out of which she paid Mr. Belmonte at his office $123; that two weeks after she gave him $30 in notes on his asking for more money and that he gave back 80 cents in change which Boodran, who had handed him the money, took. Her evidence is corroborated by that of Boodran and of the accountant of the Post Office Savings Bank at Cornhill Street, who proves that on the 16th September, Simerkie withdrew $209.36 closing her account, $204.08 of the sum withdrawn being capital and $5.28 interest thereon. The receipt of $123 or any part thereof is denied by Mr. Belmonte in his evidence and Bissoon, his clerk, says that the reason he went to the Post Office with Simerkie was that she might draw money to buy cows. We do not believe this explaination and having regard to the corroboration of Simerkie's testimony, we believe she drew that money to pay her solicitor therefrom and paid him $123. Mr. Belmonte admits that $29 20 was handed to him at his house before the levy was made but says that he returned five shillings out of it. The value of his testimony is weakened by the conclusion just arrived at, and we believe that (as stated by Simerkie and Boodran) be received and retained the whole amount of $29 20.

The next question for consideration is whether the total sum of $152 20 covers all the charges which Mr. Belmonte could legally make in respect of the action. Mr. Belmonte has put in evidence his untaxed bill of costs, which (inclusive of fees claimed in respect of the taxation thereof, amounting to $13) equals $154 10. Some items are included therein which obviously could not be allowed on taxation, as e.g. fee $2 for attending counsel to intimate the withdrawal of the levy, fee $12 for attending counsel advising on evidence, before it was known whether any defence was filed. Hence, even if all the other charges could properly be allowed, the amount of that bill is less than the amount which has been received by Mr. Belmonte, from the petitioner. The Court is not satisfied that Mr. Belmonte made with the petitioner the champertous agreement that he should be paid in the event of success, by taking one half of the proceeds of the judgment, an agreement which would be invalid. (Mitchell v. Leggatt, 30th December, 1904), but even if the promissory note for $240, alleged by Mr. Belmonte to have been given as security for his bill of costs be taken as proved and if the pawn ticket notwithstanding the evidence to the contrary be deemed to have been, as he alleges, given to him as further security for such bill, that bill having been satisfied, Mr. Belmonte is not entitled now to retain them. The Court therefore orders that the promissory note be cancelled and it and the pawn ticket be returned to the petitioner.

The evidence, in our opinion, does not establish any agreement to pay as a retainer $75 or any other sum to the barrister employed. The Court therefore cannot order the respondent to pay any such retainer to such barrister but orders the respondent to pay to Mr. Marshall such fees as he may as counsel have earned in the action Simerkie v. Ramyard, those fees having been included in the respondent's bill of costs already mentioned. The respondent must also pay the petitioner's costs for the attendance of witnesses and of counsel and solicitor on the hearing of her petition

The Court is not satisfied that the petitioner withdrew the levy on account of any demand by the respondent for the payment to him of a further sum of money. But this does not disentitle the petitioner to the relief already mentioned.

The petitioner will obtain under the orders previously specified all the relief to which she personally is entitled. But the Court has a duty to the public to perform where the conduct of any of its officers is is questioned, and cannot overlook the conduct brought to its notice in this case of the respondent who, as a solicitor, is an officer of the Court. The proceedings and evidence, we regret to say, establish that although he received, as a solicitor, from his client, Simerkie, a sum of money sufficient to cover all his legal charges in the action in which he was employed by her he in this case (as apparently from his clerk's evidence was his custom in all cases) kept no proper account of the money received by him and gave no receipt for the sums paid him: that he untruly denied the receipt of the greater part of the moneys paid him which denial having regard to the short interval (16th September to 18th October) between the payment of $123 and the termination of his employment and the demand of the pawn ticket, cannot be regarded as due to forgetfulness, and has repeated that denial on oath in these proceedings: that notwithstanding the receipt of such moneys and the discharge thereby of his client's indebtedness to him, he has by his false denial in part of such receipt and by his claim to retain as security for his costs a pawn ticket which on the evidence does not appear to have been given him in pledge, and by neglecting to pay the barrister whose services he engaged such fees as he was entitled to, forced the petitioner to take the present proceedings against him.

The Court therefore orders that Mr. B. C. Belmonte do on Monday, the 12th of February, 1912, at 10.30 a.m., appear before it and show cause why having regard to the facts appearing in this case he should not be struck off the Roll of Solicitors or be suspended from practice.

SUPREME COURT OF BRITISH GUIANA.

LIMITED JURISDICTION.

THIS 1ST DAY OF FEBRUARY, 1912.

In re PETITION OF THE COMMISSIONER OF LANDS AND MINES FOR LETTERS OF DECREE FOR WINDSOR FOREST.

In this case parate execution was issued against Plantation Windsor Forest without any part thereof being excepted, for the recovery of moneys due to the Colony in respect of expenditure on sea defences and at the execution sale the plantation was bought by the Colony which now seeks to obtain letters of decree. A part of that plantation was acquired by the Demerara Railway Company by transport some few years ago for the purpose of the West Coast Railway, constructed under the contract mentioned in and confirmed by the Demerara Extension Railway Ordinance, 1896. When the part acquired by the Company was taken in execution no question was raised by the Company as to whether or not such part was liable to be so taken along with the rest of the plantation but the Company now seeks to have such part excepted from the letters of decree, which are applied for on behalf of the Colony.

The company's claim is based on section 21 of the Demerara Railways Amendment Ordinance, 1899, which section provides "it shall not be lawful for any "land now or hereafter acquired by the Company for "the purpose of its undertakings which shall have "been transported to the Company, ... or for "any of the buildings or erections of the Company "thereon to be included in any transport or letters "of decree purporting to relate either wholly or in "part to adjoining land, notwithstanding that the "Company shall not have opposed such transport or "letters of decree; and so far as any such transport "or letters of decree shall purport to comprise or "alienate any part of the land acquired by the Com-"pany as aforesaid or any of the buildings or erections "of the Company thereon, the same shall be void "and of no effect as against the Company."

On the Colony's behalf, it is urged that section 15 of the same Ordinance permits parate execution to issue against lands acquired by the Company which form part of an estate subject as one undivided whole to liability in respect of expenditure upon sea defences, unless the Company pays a proportionate share of such expenditure, that the land in question is part of Windsor Forest, an estate so subject, and that the Company has not in this case paid any share of the expenditure.

It is not contested by Counsel for the Company that the expenditure on sea defences in this instance sought to be recovered was by law "charged upon and recoverable be parate execution" from the plantation Windsor Forest "as one undivided whole" and that the Company has paid no part of such expenditure. But it is contended that by section 67 of the Demerara Railway Company's Ordinance 1846 (2 of 1846) the Company is exempted from liability to bear or contribute to the expenses of sea defence, and that section 15 of Ordinance 16 of 1899 does not impair or lessen such exemption. Section 67 provides that the Company "as proprietors of lands taken for the pur-"poses of the railway shall not be deemed pro-"prietors of lands within the meaning of any Ordin-"ance by which the expense of making or repairing "public roads and highways, and roads, dams, "bridges or other public works is directed to be "borne by proprietors of lands, but the Company "shall at all times be exempt from all such expenses "or any contribution thereto." At the time when that Ordinance was passed no special Sea Defence Ordinance was on the statute book, the only provision as to sea dams being the one in the Public Roads and Bridges Ordinance (7 of 1844) which requires the maintenance on every estate through which a public road passes of a strong and sufficient front dam, and in default empowers the maintenance of such dam at the public expense and the recovery of the cost by parate execution. It is, I think, open to some doubt whether section 67 of Ordinance 2 of 1846 exempts the Company as owner of part of any estate or plantation from the liability created by the Sea Defence Ordinance, 1883 (2 of 1883) as far as lands purchased by the Company after the date thereof are concerned. But even if that section did, before the passing of Ordinance 16 of 1899, exempt the Company and its original railway from all liability in respect of sea defence, its effect in my opinion has been restricted (at any rate as to lands acquired for the new railways) by section 15 of that Ordinance, which grants only a conditional exemption from such liability, superadding as a condition precedent to the exemption the payment by the Company of a proportionate share of the total liability, and thus by implication limiting the generality of the provision of the former enactment, (cf ex parte Caruthers, 9 East 44). It may be added that all the provisions of the Ordinance 2 of 1846 apply to the new railways, of which the West Coast Railway is one so far only as such provisions are not varied or cancelled by any subsequent Ordinance. (Clause 49 of contract confirmed by section 2 of Ordinance 8 of 1896). Section 15 of Ordinance 16 of 1899 therefore in my opinion authorises the issue of parate execution against the lands of the Company in cases like the one now under consideration.

It is also I think clear that if section 15 authorises the issue of parate execution against such lands under the condition mentioned, it must be held to authorise the legal consequences of such execution, viz., sale of such lands and the issue of letters of decree therefor to the purchaser. The Ordinance therefore (according to that construction) contains in section 15 a special provision allowing the issue under certain circumstances of letters of decree including lands previously owned by the Company, and in section 21 a general provision, which appears to forbid the issue of any letters of decree including any such lands; but under the general rule of construction in such cases, as laid down by Romilly, M.R. in Pretty v. Solly (26 Beav. at p. 610) and in De Winton v. Brecon (28 L.J. Ch. 604) the general provision in section 21 must be construed as tacitly excepting the special cases provided for by section 15.

This construction is I think also supported by the fact that there is a class of cases to which section 21 is especially applicable. Lands belonging to the Company (in the absence of any statutory provision) could be taken in execution and sold and transferred by letters of decree to a purchaser in the following cases only, namely, (a) if a sentence, i.e., a judgment were obtained in an action against the Company, (b) if a sentence were obtained in an action to which the Company was not a party, and by some mistake not only the judgment debtor's land but also adjoining land belonging to the Company were taken in execution and sold without the Company's entering opposition in acordance with the common law, and (c) if land owned by the Company originally formed part of an estate, plantation or lot, subject as one undivided whole to a liability in favour of the Colony or Government enforceable by parate execution, and was not when acquired by the Company released from all such liability. Case (a) is provided for by section 14 of the Ordinance, which prevents a judgment creditor of the Company taking its lands in execution, but enables him to obtain the appointment of a receiver of the Company's undertaking, and case (c) is provided for by section 15 which enables the Company to prevent the taking in execution by paying a proportionate share of the sum sought to be recovered. Case (b) remains to which case section 21 is applicable, that section protecting the Company from the consequences of any such mistake as has been mentioned, even if no opposition has been entered.

For the foregoing reasons the strength of which is increased if the Ordinance 16 of 1899 is regarded as a private Ordinance and, as such as being one to receive a strict interpretation against the Company, I think the Company is not entitled to have the lands in question excluded from the letters of decree for Plantation Windsor Forest, and the prayer of the petition is therefore granted.

HENRY A. BOVELL, C.J.

THIS 2ND DAY OF FEBRUARY, 1912.

JOWAHIR

versus

KANGA.

The plaintiff by this action claims an order on the defendant to pass transport of a piece of land four roods in façade, being part of a piece of land sixteen roods in façade, part of Plantation Tenez Ferme, situate in Canal No. 1, West Bank of Demerary River, which was sold by defendant to him in March, 1910, for the sum of $70 paid to him.

The defendant admits that he sold his four undivided roods of the said piece of land to plaintiff as alleged but avers that on 21st April, 1910, he transported the same to Kunjbeharry—he alleges that the price agreed on was $80—$10 of which was paid leaving a balance of $70.

The evidence establishes that Jhabbu, Madhe, de Souza and defendant, four East Indians, held by transport the sixteen roods in equal undivided shares, that Jhabbu, Madhe and defendant transported their 12 undivided shares to Kunjbeharry and that as amongst themselves the land had been divided. It further establishes that the four roods sold to plaintiff was the portion occupied by defendant. It is also proved that the price agreed on was $70 and that this sum together with $9.51 the cost of obtaining transport was paid by plaintiff.

It is urged that it was de Souza's undivided one-fourth share and not that of defendant that was meant to be transported. There is evidence to this effect but in the face of the transport by defendant this Court is forced to the conclusion that the title to the undivided one-fourth remaining unsold is in de Souza.

Transport by defendant cannot be ordered. The plaintiff, however, is entitled to recover the $79.51 paid by him. The Court does not see its way to award damages.

Judgment for plaintiff for $79.51 and costs.

APPELLATE JURISDICTION.

THIS 2ND DAY OF FEBRUARY, 1912.

YOUNG, Appellant,

versus

McGARRELL, Respondent.

This is an appeal from the Stipendiary Magistrate of the East Coast Judicial District who in an action for false imprisonment brought by the respondent against the appellant claiming $25 as damages gave judgment for $10 and costs.

The reasons of appeal are (1) that the Magistrate had no jurisdiction, the same having been ousted in a criminal charge out of which this action arose and this being so there could not be a termination of the criminal case in the respondent's favour, (2) that the decision is wrong in law because it was not proved that the appellant gave the respondent into custody, and if he did give him into custody he had reasonable and probable cause for doing so and (3) that the decision is unwarranted by the evidence.

The Magistrate finds on the evidence that on 15th October, 1911, the appellant made a false charge against the respondent of damaging with intent to steal his canes and gave him into custody and appeared on the 19th and prosecuted him for this offence.

As to reason 1. The certified copy of the proceedings in the Criminal Court shows that that charge, which was brought against the respondent and two others—was dismissed. It would seem that a question of title to the land was raised, but whether dismissed on this or some other ground does not appear, the evidence discloses good reason for dismissal on the merits.

As to reason 2. The evidence of the respondent is to the effect that appellant came to him with a constable who said "Young says that I am to lock you up." He was taken to the Police Station where the appellant subsequently came and told the Sergeant that he wanted him locked up, that he was locked up till next morning when he obtained bail. P.C. Howell speaks to the respondent coming to the station, charging the respondent and signing the charge. The proceedings show that he appeared before the Magistrate and prosecuted, and that the constable who arrested him said that he was called by appellant to arrest respondent. On this evidence, the Magistrate was justified in holding that the appellant had given respondent into custody.

It is argued by the Solicitor for the appellant that it lay on the respondent to prove that appellant acted without reasonable and probable cause. This is so in an action for malicious prosecution, but in an action for false imprisonment, the onus is on the defendant.

A constable may justify an arrest by showing that he had reasonable grounds for believing that a felony had been committed and that the plaintiff was the person who had committed it, but when the defendant is a private person he must show that a felony has been in fact committed. It is clear that in the present case the appellant committed no felony.

Reason 3 is dealt with in the course of this decision.

The appeal is dismissed and the decision of the Magistrate confirmed with costs.

PAUL, Appellant,

versus

KRYENHOFF & ANOR., Respondents.

This appeal is from the Stipendiary Magistrate of the Georgetown Judicial District, who in an action brought by the appellant against the respondents claiming the sum of $60.06 as balance due on a promissory note for $95.20, gave judgment for the respondents.

The Magistrate held, on the evidence, that the appellant was a money-lender and as he admitted that he was not registered, the Magistrate further held that he could not recover.

The ground of appeal is that it was not proved that appellant is a money-lender.

A money-lender as defined by the Ordinance (No. 16 of 1907) includes every person whose business is that of money-lending, or who advertises or announces himself or holds himself out in any way as carrying on that business.

Speaking generally, a man who carries on such a business is ready and willing to lend to anyone who, from his point of view, is eligible.

The profits of the business are derived from the charges made on the money advanced, and although a person may lend money at interest without carrying on the business of a money-lender, yet it is necessary to show that such charges are made in order to establish that he is a money-lender.

The evidence of the appellant is to the effect that on four previous occasions, the first of which was in 1907, he had lent the respondent money, that he had also lent to four other persons sums varying in amount between $55.20 and 72 cents, that he had not charged interest, that he had lent to the respondents as a friend and not as a money-lender, and that he was not registered as such. No question was asked as to the nature of his employment nor was any evidence adduced to show that interest, exorbitant or otherwise, had been charged. No other witness was examined.

In the opinion of this Court, there is nothing on the notes of evidence to warrant the conclusion arrived at, and this being so, this appeal must be allowed.

The decision of the Magistrate is reversed and judgment entered for the appellant for $59.20—the amount stated by appellant in the Court below to be now due—with costs.

M. J. BERKELEY, J.

KING, Appellant,

versus

DE FREITAS, Respondent.

This is an appeal from the Stipendiary Magistrate of the Georgetown Judicial District who in a claim made by the respondent against the apellant for the sum of $12 being one month's rent of a house in lieu of notice gave judgment in favour of the respondent.

The grounds of appeal are (1) that the decision is erroneous in law because (a) it is not proved that any rent was due and (b) cannot under the circumstances recover for rent, and (2) that the decision is unwarranted by the evidence (a) for the reasons already given and (b) because it was proved that the appellant's removal was with the knowledge and consent of the respondent.

The respondent does not appear.

The evidence is to the effect that the appellant was a monthly tenant from 1st September and that he left the house on 30th September. The appellant alleges that when he moved in he told respondent's agent that if certain additions—as promised—were not effected by the end of the month he would leave. The agent denies any such agreement and the appellant's wife says that these additions were to have been made before they moved in and when they found on 1st September that they were not done the agent was sent for but did nothing. She does not refer to any agreement as deposed to by the appellant.

On this evidence the Magistrate very properly finds that there was no such agreement. As to reason 1 therefore it being proved that a monthly tenancy existed the respondent is entitled to recover the month's rent in lieu of notice.

As to reason 2 the only evidence as to removal with appellant's knowledge and consent is that of the appellant's wife who says that the key was delivered to respondent's agent on 30th September. If the Magistrate even believed this evidence it is not of itself sufficient waiver of notice to debar the respondent from recovering.

The appeal is dismissed and the decision of the Magistrate confirmed, the respondent not having appeared there will be no order as to costs.

SUPREME COURT OF BRITISH GUIANA.

APPELLATE JURISDICTION.

THIS 9TH DAY OF FEBRUARY, 1912.

BARRAN, Appellant,
versus
BARKAY, Respondent.

This is an appeal from a conviction on a charge of unlawfully and maliciously wounding.

The only reason for appeal is that the decision is altogether unwarranted by the evidence, the respondent having said he was wounded on the head whereas the wound was found by the chemist who dressed it to be on the ear.

The evidence fully establishes the charge, the alleged inconsistency in the evidence being apparent only, the word "head" being used as including the ear, and having considered the facts of the case I see no reason for acceding to the application that the penalty imposed by the Magistrate be reduced.

The Magistrate's decision is affirmed and the appeal dismissed but without costs, the respondent not having appeared.

HENRY A. BOVELL, C.J.

LIMITED JURISDICTION.

THIS 8TH DAY OF FEBRUARY, 1912.

McKINNON, EXOR.,
versus
HARRIS AND COY.

The plaintiff seeks to recover from the defendant company the sum of $105 being balance due for rent of premises on lot 15, Strand, New Amsterdam, Berbice.

The defendant denies indebtedness and counterclaims for $280 as due for 8 months' rent of the back store and stelling situate on the said lot 15.

The evidence shows that the defendant Harris trading as Harris and Company had been for some years tenant of the front store on lot 15, which lot was the property of the late D. W. McKinnon, and that in his life-time defendant had been in treaty with his attorney Melville for the purchase of the whole lot. That this purchase was effected with the plaintiff as executor, an agreement to sell being signed by the parties on 3rd November, 1910, in which it is stated that the sum agreed on is $4,800 "to be paid before the passing of transport and possession to be retained by the seller until payment of purchase money." That $1,000 was paid by the defendant on 8th November, 1910, and the balance on passing of the transport on 20th February, 1911.

The defendant alleges that the purchase money referred to in the agreement was the $1,000 paid on 8th November, and that he has been in possession since that date. He admits that he owed 5 months' rent at $35 per month from 1st June to 31st October, 1910, as claimed but denies that he agreed to a reduction of $70 on condition that certain goods, the property of the estate of D. W. McKinnon, should remain in the back store until sold and by his counter-claim he claims rent in respect of this back store for 8 months from 1st November, 1910, to 30th June, 1911, at $35 per month.

The plaintiff's books shew that defendant was charged with rent for the two months of November and December, 1910, but that these entries were cancelled and that no rent was charged after 1910. They further shew that Mr. Gilbert, a tenant on the premises, paid no rent to plaintiff after October, 1910. These facts may tend to support the evidence of defendant that he has been in possession since November although it is not proved to the satisfaction of the Court that he was ever placed in possession as alleged by him. The plaintiff says that rent was not charged after the payment of the $1,000 although he was entitled to so charge it. It might well be that $1,000 having been paid and the intention, as it then was, being to pass the transport in the same month, the entries for November and December were cancelled and no rent was charged against defendant after that date. On the agreement this Court must hold that the plaintiff remained in possession until 20th February, 1911.

In the course of the trial counsel for the defendant recognised that the Court must so hold but he submitted that defendant would be entitled to charge for hire or for use and occupation of the back store from March to June when the plaintiff's goods were removed. There is no evidence of a hire and the first intimation to the plaintiff in respect of any charge for storing goods was when defendant rendered an account in June claiming 8 months' rent.

There is corroboration of the plaintiff's evidence that defendant agreed to allow the goods to remain in the back store until sold in consideration of 2 months' rent due by him being deducted. There is no corroboration of defendant's evidence that the $70 to be allowed was in respect of the months of November and December. It seems strange that if it was agreed that this deduction was to be made in respect of these two months the defendant should claim again in respect thereof in his account.

The Court finds that the agreement was as alleged by the plaintiff,

Judgment for the plaintiff on the claim and counter claim, that is for $105 and costs.

SUPREME COURT OF BRITISH GUIANA.

APPELLATE JURISDICTION.

THIS 9TH DAY OF FEBRUARY, 1912.

MUNRO, Appellant,
versus
FRANKLIN, (Sergt.-Major), Respondent.

This is an appeal from a conviction on a charge that the appellant being the guardian of a male child did wilfully neglect such child in a manner likely to cause the said child unnecessary suffering.

The written reasons for appeal are very lengthy and full of detail, but, as summarised by the appellant's counsel in his argument, are (1) and (2) that the decision is erroneous in law and unwarranted by the evidence, the evidence not establishing (a) that the appellant was a guardian within the legal definition (Ord. 17 of 1893, sec. 2), i.e., a person of or above the age of 21 years, or (b) that the appellant was guilty of wilful neglect, or (c) that the appellant or the child's mother had the means of doing or providing for the child anything which was not done or provided, or (d) that the alleged coldness of the child and the alleged bites on its body were due to the appellant's neglect, or (e) that the appellant had mens rea, a guilty mind, or (f) that the neglect was likely to cause unnecessary suffering; and (3) that the evidence of the witnesses Highlander, Brentnall and Cassels, as to the child's general condition and insufficient clothing and as to the marks on its body being insect bites, was illegally admitted, they not being medical practitioners, as likewise that of Charles Burton, there being no proof that he is a qualified and registered medical practitioner.

Registration is not necessary to render a medical practitioner's evidence admissible as that of an expert. In the present case, the witness Charles Burton is spoken of by other witnesses as "Dr. Burton" and was sent for as being a doctor when the child was found cold and ill: no objection was taken in the Court below that he was not a duly qualified medical practitioner and he was cross-examined by the appellant's counsel on the evidence he gave as an expert. This Court cannot presume, in the absence of evidence to that effect, that the witness was not a duly qualified medical practitioner, and in view of the foregoing, cannot hold that his evidence was inadmissible, its admissibility being primâ facie establishe l.

Whether the child was thin or fat, was cold or hot to the touch, looked ill or in good health, are not, in my opinion, points of science or art on which only an expert, such as a medical practitioner, can give evidence. Evidence of this kind, by ordinary witnesses, is commonly given in England in criminal trials. The question whether the marks seen were caused by insect bites or by disease is not quite in the same category, but even if a witness in this colony cannot say a mark is a mosquito bite unless he is a medical expert, still the evidence of the witnesses Brentnall and Cassels was, in my opinion, admissible so far as it shews that the marks appeared like insect bites, and the evidence of Highlander (who, as a certified midwife, has had some technical training) that the marks were mosquito bites was also admissible. Dr. Burton's evidence shews that the marks were insect bites.

The third reason for appeal is therefore unsustainable.

The first and second reasons of appeal are in effect that the Magistrate's decision cannot be supported on the evidence before him, that on that evidence alone being given a Judge, if the case was to be tried by a jury, would have withdrawn the case from the jury. The evidence, therefore, on each of the points raised by these reasons must be considered.

The Magistrate had the appellant before him and from her appearance (Reg. v. Cox, 18 Cox C. C. at p. 675) as well as from the fact proved, that she had two daughters, might legally arrive at the conclusion that she was of or above the age of 21 years.

The words "wilfully neglect" in the charge, which is brought under section 28 (1) of Ord. 17 of 1893, must, I think, be construed in the same way as those words are construed in the corresponding English enactment. To "wilfully neglect," therefore, means not to take reasonable care, that is, to omit to take such steps as a reasonable guardian would take, such as are usually taken in the ordinary experience of mankind, and to do this deliberately and intentionally, not by accident or inadvertence (Reg. v, Senior L.R. 1899, 1 Q.B. 283: Reg. v. Downes 45 L.J. Ma. C. 8), or (in other words) wilful neglect is the not doing what is reasonable, something which a guardian ought to do, having regard to the relation which he or she occupies toward the child under his or her care, and being guilty of such omission knowingly and intentionally (cf. dicta of Bowen, L.J., 31 L.R. Ch. D. at pp. 174, 175). In the present case, the evidence before the Magistrate shewed that an infant not more than five weeks old, under the care of the appellant, was found looking thin and ill, cold to the touch, without warm clothing, bitten "not in one or two spots only, but all over its face, arms and neck" by insects and with some ants on it, that the child (as stated by Highlander) till it was between two and three weeks old, looked well, that Highlander, seeing it a few days later, saw it was looking thin and had mosquito bites on it and told the appellant that she should take steps to protect it with a net but no such steps were taken and the infant was, about two weeks later, found in the condition already described. In view of this evidence the Court (although the evidence may not be very strong) cannot hold that the Magistrate could not reasonably come to the conclusion that the appellant omitted to take such steps as a reasonable guardian would take and (in view of her disregard of Highlander's warning, who called her attention to the need of netting) that her omission was deliberate and intentional and that the co-existence of so many indications of neglect was not due to accident or mere inadvertence.

The appellant appears from the evidence to have undertaken the care of this infant for a payment of $4 a month. The Magistrate might, I think, reasonably infer that she charged a sum sufficient to afford her not only the means of discharging properly the duty she undertook, viz., "of taking that care of the child which its tender age required," but also some reward for her trouble and that the evidence primâ facie proved that she had the means of providing any clothing or protection from mosquitos and other insects which was necessary.

The only arguments advanced in support of reason (1 & 2) (e) were that the coldness of the child might have been due to a defective lung and that the child may have been thin and marked with bites when placed under the appellant's care. There was no legal evidence before the Magistrate that the child had a defective lung or that coldness would result therefrom and Highlander's evidence shews the second argument is untenable.

Reason (1 & 2) (e) as to non-proof of a guilty mind raises the same question as that already dealt with as to non-proof of wilful neglect.

The Magistrate might, in my opinion, fairly infer that the neglect proved was such as was likely to cause unnecessary suffering.

In view of all the evidence the case, in my opinion, is not one which could have been properly withdrawn from a jury, had it been tried by a Judge and jury, and the Court, therefore, cannot overrule the Magistrate's decision. That decision is affirmed and the appeal dismissed with costs.

EXTRACT FROM ORDINANCE No. 12 OF 1891.

REGISTRATION.

33—(1.) Every person who is liable to serve in the force shall, immediately on his becoming so liable, notify the Registrar of the City or County in which he resides, and shall furnish him with any particulars required for the purpose of registration.

(2.) Every person who contravenes this Section shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding twenty-four dollars.

34.—(1.) Every person who changes his residence from a place where he is liable to serve in one Company to a place where he is liable to serve in another Company shall, within seven days after such change of residence, notify the Registrars of both places thereof: Provided that no such change of residence shall, unless the Governor otherwise orders, affect the liability to serve of any person who is, at the time of such change of residence, a member of the Active Force.

(2.) Every person who contravenes this Section shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding twenty-four dollars.

37.—(1.) Within fourteen days after the publication of the list in the Official Gazette, any person whose name appears in the list and who considers that his name should not be retained therein may, by himself or by any other person, give notice in writing to the Registrar that he objects to the retention of his name in the list, and shall state in the notice the grounds of his objection.

(2.) The Registrar shall enquire into the objection, and may require such evidence from the person objecting as he may think fit, and shall communicate his decision on the objection to the person objecting.

(3.) If the decision is adverse to the person objecting, such person may, within three days after the decision has been communicated to him, appeal in writing addressed to the Governor, against the decision, and the decision of the Governor on the appeal shall be final.

38. Any changes made in the list under the provisions of the last preceding section shall be forthwith notified by the Registrar in the Official Gazette and in a newspaper of the Colony circulating in the City or County for which he is Registrar.

39. When the list has been finally settled, it shall be regarded and have effect as the Register of persons liable to serve in the Force for the City of Georgetown or for the particular County, as the case may be, for the remainder of the then current year and until the new Register has been established in the ensuing year: Provided that additions may at any time be made to the Register as hereinbefore mentioned.

GOVERNMENT SECRETARY'S OFFICE,
GEORGETOWN, DEMERARA,
23rd February, 1912.

71.

THE following Bill, which it is proposed to introduce into the Court of Policy, is hereby published for general information.

By Command,
J. HAMPDEN KING,
Acting Government Secretary.

THE MOTOR CAR BILL, 1912.

EXPLANATORY MEMORANDUM.

The increase in motor car traffic renders it desirable that the traffic should be regulated and that incompetent persons should not be allowed to drive motor cars.

This Bill is based on and follows in the main the lines of the Motor Car Act, 1903 (3 Edw. 7 c. 36) passed in England for the same purpose.

Under it it is an offence to drive recklessly even though no accident or damage results, but it is not proposed to provide for a speed limit, as the speed at which cars can be safely driven differs so much in different places according to the condition of the road and the amount of traffic on it. (Section 1).

Provision is made for the registration of motor cars, and for affixing a number to every car (Section 2).

The Bill requires all persons who drive Motor Cars to have a certificate of competency and makes it an offence to drive a car without one (Section 3). This goes further than the English Act, which allows any one to be licensed to drive a car on payment of a small fee, but in most other countries proof of competency is required, and it is considered desirable to require the same here.

Provision is made for the making of by-laws as to matters relating to the registration of cars and the granting of certificates of competency and the examination of candidates for these certificates, and it is proposed that this power be conferred on the Local Government Board, instead of creating a new Board for the purpose. The Local Government Board has power to act through Committees, and the powers given by the Bill can well be exercised by a committee, and from its wide acquaintance with the whole Colony the Board seems the most suitable body to confer the powers on. In England the regulations as to motor cars are made by the Local Government Board. (Section 7).

A BILL ENTITLED "AN ORDINANCE TO MAKE PROVISION "AS TO MOTOR CARS."

BE it enacted by the Governor of British Guiana with the advice and consent of the Court of Policy thereof, as follows :—

Reckless driving.

1.—(1.) If any person drives a motor car on a public road recklessly or negligently, or at a speed or in a manner which is dangerous to the public, having regard to all the circumstances of the case, including the nature, condition and use of the road, and to the amount of traffic which actually is at the time, or which might reasonably be expected to be, on the road, that person shall be guilty of an offence under this Ordinance.

(2.) Any police constable may apprehend without warrant the driver of any car who commits an offence under this section within his view, if he refuses to give his name and address or produce his certificate of competency on demand, or if the motor car does not bear the mark or marks of identification.

(3.) If the driver of any car who commits an offence under this section refuses to give his name or address, or gives a false name or address, he shall be guilty of an offence under this Ordinance, and it shall be the duty of the owner of the car, if required, to give any information which it is within his power to give, and which may lead to the identification and apprehension of the driver, and if the owner fails to do so he also shall be guilty of an offence under this Ordinance.

Registration of motor cars.

2.—(1.) Every motor car shall be registered with the Chief Commissary, who shall assign a separate number to every such car.

(2.) A mark, indicating the registered number of the car, shall be fixed on the car or on a vehicle drawn by the car, or on both, in such manner as shall be prescribed by by-laws made under this Ordinance.

(3.) A fee of one dollar shall be charged by the Chief Commissary on the registration of a car, except in the case of motor cycles for which the fee shall be fifty cents.

(4.) If a car is used on a public road without being registered, or if the mark to be fixed in accordance with this Ordinance is not so fixed, or if, being so fixed, it is in any way obscured or rendered or allowed to become not easily distinguishable, the person driving the car shall be guilty of an offence under this Ordinance, unless, in the case of a prosecution for obscuring a mark or rendering or allowing it to become not easily distinguishable, he proves that he has taken all steps reasonably practicable to prevent the mark being obscured or rendered not easily distinguishable.

Provided that—

(a.) A person shall not be liable to a penalty under this section if he proves that he has had no reasonable opportunity of registering the car in accordance with this section, and that the car is being driven on a public road for the purpose of being so registered ; and

(b.) The Chief Commissary may on payment of an annual fee of three dollars assign to any manufacturer of or dealer in motor cars in the colony a general identification mark which may be used for any car on trial after completion, or on trial by an intending purchaser, and a person shall not be liable to a penalty under this section while so using the car, if the mark so assigned is fixed upon the car in the manner prescribed by by-laws made under this Ordinance.

Drivers to have certificates of competency.

3.—(1.) A person shall not drive a motor car on a public road unless he holds a certificate of competency under this section, and a person shall not employ any person who does not hold such a certificate to drive a motor car : Provided that this provision shall not apply where a person is learning to drive a motor car under the supervision of some person who holds a certificate of competency and who is in a position from which he can control the motor car in case of necessity.

If any person acts in contravention of this provision he shall be guilty of an offence under this Ordinance.

(2.) The Local Government Board shall grant a certificate of competency to drive a motor car to any person applying for it who after examination satisfies it that he is competent to drive a motor car, and the Board shall cause examinations to be held for this purpose at such times and in such manner as shall be prescribed by by-laws made under this Ordinance : Provided that the Board may grant to any person who satisfies it that he is competent to drive a motor car a certificate of competency without requiring him to be examined.

(3.) A certificate of competency must be produced by any person driving a motor car when demanded by a police constable. If any person fails so to produce his certificate, he shall be liable, on summary conviction, in respect of each offence to a fine not exceeding twenty-five dollars.

(4.) Any person under the age of seventeen years shall be disqualified for obtaining a certificate of competency (except a certificate of competency limited for driving motor cycles may be granted to a person over the age of fourteen years.)

Suspension of certificate.

4.—(1.) Any court before whom a person is convicted of an offence under this Ordinance or of any offence in connection with the driving of a motor car,

(a.) may, if the person convicted holds any certificate of competency under this Ordinance, suspend that certificate for such time as the court thinks fit, and if the court thinks fit, also cancel such certificate, and

(b.) if the person convicted holds any certificate of competency under this Ordinance, shall cause particulars of the conviction and of any order of the court made under this section to be endorsed upon any certificate held by him.

(2.) Any person so convicted, if he holds any certificate of competency under this Ordinance, shall produce the certificate within a reasonable time for the purpose of endorsement, and if he fails to do so shall be guilty of an offence under this Ordinance.

(3.) A certificate so suspended by the court shall during the term of suspension be of no effect.

(4.) Any person whose certificate of competency has been suspended or cancelled by virtue of an order of the court under this section, may appeal against the order in the same manner as a person convicted of a summary conviction offence; and the court may, if it thinks fit, pending the appeal, defer the operation of the order.

Forgery of identification mark or certificate.

5. If a person forges or fraudulently alters or uses, or fraudulently lends or allows to be used by any other person, any mark for identifying a car or any certificate under this Ordinance he shall be guilty of an offence under this Ordinance.

Duty to stop in case of accident.

6. Any person driving a motor car shall, in any case, if an accident occurs to any person, whether on foot, on horseback or in a vehicle, or to any horse or vehicle in charge of any person, owing to the presence of the moter car on the road, stop and, if required, give his name and address, and also the name and address of the owner and the registration mark or number of the car; and if any person knowingly acts in contravention of this section, he shall be liable, on summary conviction, in respect of the first offence to a fine not exceeding fifty dollars, and in respect of the second offence to a fine not exceeding one hundred dollars, and in respect of any subsequent offence to a fine not exceeding one hundred dollars, or, in the discretion of the court, to a term of imprisonment not exceeding one month.

By-laws by Local Government Board. No. 13 of 1907.

7. The Local Government Board may under section nineteen of the Local Government Ordinance, 1907, make By-laws,—

(a) Providing generally for facilitating the identification of motor cars, and in particular for determining and regulating generally the size, shape and character of the identifying marks to be fixed under this Ordinance and the mode in which they are to be fixed and to be rendered easily distinguishable, whether by night or by day, and with respect to the registration of cars, and the entry of particulars, including particulars of the ownership of the car, in the register, and the giving of those particulars, and for making any particulars contained in the register available for use by the police, and for making the registration of a car void if the by-laws as to registration are not complied with, and for regulating the horns, whistles and other devices for giving warning of the approach of a motor car and the manner in which the same may be used; and

(b.) HIS Excellency the Acting Governor directs the publication for general information of the following directions for purifying water by Alum and Chloride of Lime.

By Command,

J. HAMPDEN KING,
Acting Government Secretary.

TO PURIFY WATER BY ALUM AND CHLORIDE OF LIME.

(FOR SMALL QUANTITIES.)

1. Any kind of fresh water can be purified in this way whether dirty and muddy or brown and clear.

2. The alum (powdered) should be dissolved in water and then thrown into the water to be purified and well stirred round. After this has been done the chloride of lime (a white powder) which will not dissolve should be stirred up in water and then thrown into the water to be purified and well stirred round. Allow the water after it has been treated to stand for 24 hours when it will be pure and clear at the top and all the dirt and brown colour will have fallen to the bottom.

3. For a pailful of water (about 3 gallons) use of alum as much as will lie on a sixpenny piece well heaped up (18 grains) and of chloride of lime a pinch (1½ grain).

4. For a barrel of water (about 40 gallons) use of alum 1½ teaspoonfuls (½oz.) and of chloride of lime as much as will lie on a one shilling piece (20 grains).

5. For a rum puncheon (110 gallons) use of alum 4 teaspoonfuls (one and one-third ounce) and of chloride of lime half a teaspoonful (55 grains).

6. For a vessel of 1,000 gallons use of alum 12 ounces and of chloride of lime one ounce.

7. Rough measures:—

An ordinary pail holds	3	gallons.
1 cubic foot of water	6¼	,,
An ordinary barrel	40	,,
A rum puncheon	110	,,

If doubtful of the quantity of water any vessel holds, fill it with water with an ordinary pail or bucket, then count the number of bucketfuls and multiply by three, the answer will give you the number of gallons the vessel contains.

8. It is not necessary for the water to be allowed to settle before treating it.

THIS 10TH DAY OF FEBRUARY, 1912.

In re Petition of H. E. JULY, ex parte the Petitioner.

This is an application for a writ of attachment against B. E. J. C. Belmonte for not obeying an order made on the 18th May, 1911, on the petition of H. E. July, directing payment to the petitioner of the sum of $754.55 with certain costs specified in the order.

By O. I, R. 12, Part II of the Rules of Court, 1900, any order on a petition may be enforced in the same way as an order in an action and by O. XXXVI, R. 3, of the same Rules, an order in an action "for the "recovery by or payment to any person of money "may be enforced by" (a) a writ of sale of property (b) attachment of debts due to the person ordered to pay or (c) a charging order on his interest in any shares or scrip. No provision is made by the Rules of Court for enforcing an order for payment of money by means of a writ of attachment, except in cases in which such money is ordered to be paid into Court (Rule 7), Rule 3 which provides three alternative or cumulative modes of enforcing an order to pay money to an individual, not mentioning a writ of attachment as one of those modes.

It is, therefore, in our opinion, clear that the petitioner cannot obtain under the Rules of Court a writ of attachment as an ordinary process in execution for recovery of the money ordered to be paid her by the Court's order of the 18th May, 1911.

It is, however, contended that Mr. Belmonte was ordered to pay that money in his character of an officer of the Court and therefore the case comes within the fourth exception in section 3 (2) of the Debtors Ordinance, 1884, Mr. Belmonte, as a Solicitor, having made default in payment; and that consequently a writ of attachment should be granted.

The petition and proceedings thereunder and judgment thereon shew that Mr. Belmonte was, as a Solicitor and officer of the Court, ordered to pay the sum which he has left unpaid. But the Debtors Ordinance, 1884, contains no special provision for the excepted case of a Solicitor making default in payment of any sum which he has, as a Solicitor and officer of the Court, been ordered to pay and no order for imprisonment can be made by virtue of that Ordinance save in accordance with section 4, under which the present application is not made. Previous to the making of the Rules of Court, 1900, the general practice as to granting an order of apprehension (or of attachment as it is now called) was in cases of a sentence directing payment of money regulated by the Amended Manner of Proceeding Ordinance, 1855, which, by section 252, repealed all then existing laws, customs and usages repugnant to that Ordinance and there was not, so far as we are aware, in this colony any special practice or procedure followed in cases in which an attorney or solicitor was in that capacity sentenced to pay a sum of money and failed to comply with the sentence. No special provision for such cases having been made by any other Ordinance or by the Rules of Court, it may possibly be that section 51 (1) of the Supreme Court Ordinance, 1893, had at the time the Rules were made the effect of keeping in force the provisions of the said Ordinance of 1855, as to apprehension (or attachment) of a defaulting debtor in a case like the present. But, however that may be, the said Ordinance of 1855 having been subsequently repealed (Ord. 17 of 1901, sec. 10 and Sch. 2) the practice and procedure thereby provided no longer exist.

The present application must therefore be refused but under all the circumstances, without costs.

It was suggested by the petitioner's counsel that the Court might now make an order for the payment of the money into Court but no such order can, in our opinion, properly be made on the present application, even if (which we do not decide) the facts before us would justify such an order.

Having regard to the pendency of other proceedings against the respondent for professional misconduct, the Court abstains from the present consideration of his conduct in this matter.

In re PETITION OF SIMERKIE, AND ORDER ON B. E. C. BELMONTE, SOLICITOR.

In this case on the hearing of the petition of one Simerkie, after hearing the evidence of the petitioner and her witnesses and of the respondent Mr. Belmonte and his witnesses the Court made an order in favour of the petitioner against the respondent, and on the facts found to be proved at the hearing made a further order calling on the respondent to appear and show cause why he should not be struck off the Roll of Solicitors or suspended from practice.

The respondent has appeared by counsel and seeks to put in affidavits of witnesses not produced at the hearing of the petition with a view to raising the questions whether the Court's findings of fact and decision on the petition were right, or whether the petitioner and one of her witnesses committed perjury.

This is not (as argued by counsel) a fresh proceeding between different parties and therefore a case in which the law as to estoppel allows a question already decided between other parties to be reopened, and new evidence to be taken. The Court is engaged in determining whether the conduct of a solicitor, its officer, towards his client, as proved in proceedings taken against him by that client, is such as to prevent his being any longer an officer of the Court, or a member of an honourable profession.

No authority for putting in the affidavits in question has been cited and counsel states he is not aware of any case in which a solicitor who is a party to any action or proceeding and who on account of the facts proved therein has been called on to show cause why he should not be struck off the roll or suspended, has been allowed to put in such evidence, and question the decision of the Court in the proceeding to which he was a party. We know of no authority which allows this. On the contrary the reasons for the decision in Wheatley v. Bastow (24 L. J. Ch. 727), that a solicitor whose misconduct appeared on the evidence in the cause must be allowed to adduce evidence before he was punished because he was not a party to the suit and "had not had an opportunity of defending himself" point to the conclusion that in a case like the present where a solicitor has been a party to the proceeding, and has had and availed himself of the opportunity of calling witnesses and defending himself, he cannot on being called on to show cause why he should not be suspended or struck off, put in additional evidence and ask the Court to hold that its previous decision was wrong.

In our opinion in a case like the present the decision of the Court in the previous proceeding cannot be questioned, on cause being shewn after an order to show cause is made, though any extenuating circumstances connected with the facts established in those proceedings may properly be put in evidence.

THIS 16TH DAY OF FEBRUARY, 1912.

In re Petition of SIMERKIE and order on B. E. C. BELMONTE to shew cause.

In this matter Mr. Belmonte, in ouedience to the order of the Court made on the 1st February, 1912, has appeared to shew cause why, having regard to the facts proved at the hearing of the petition of one Simerkie against him as respondent, he should not be struck off the Roll of Solicitors or be suspended from practice.

The facts established on the hearing of the petition appear from the judgment of the Court thereon given on the 1st February, 1912, and it is not contested (indeed it has properly been admitted by Mr. Belmonte's counsel) that on those facts the Court could not do otherwise than take serious notice of Mr. Belmonte's conduct and either remove his name from the Roll of Solicitors or suspend him from practice. But (the Court having declined to allow affidavits to be put in for the purpose of adding to the evidence on behalf of the respondent given on the hearing of the petition and of raising again the questions decided at such hearing) it is stated that a charge of perjury has been laid against the petitioner and one of her witnesses and counsel asks that the further consideration and decision of this matter should be adjourned till the final determination of the proceedings on the charges of perjury or that the Court at present should at most suspend the Solicitor from practice till the termination of such proceedings.

In support of this application Mr. Belmonte has by leave of the Court given oral evidence and states that a joint minute signed by the petitioner and himself asking for leave to withdraw the petition on conditions therein stated having been filed, he thought the matter would be at an end, that the Court having refused to allow the withdrawal, he saw the petitioner's counsel who said the petitioner would appear and ask for leave to withdraw, that the evidence of the petitioner and one of her witnesses, Boodran, was not in accordance with the petition and counter-report and came as a surprise to him and therefore he had not the necessary witnesses available, that he had since the hearing learnt from other witnesses certain facts which they had put in affidavits and he had laid informations for perjury against the petitioner and Boodran.

Simerkie's petition was filed on the 26th October, 1911, the respondent's report thereon (in other words his defence thereto) on the 2nd December (the order to report being served on 28th November), and the petitioner's counter-report on the 12th December, 1911, and the petition was heard on the 24th January, 1912. The respondent, therefore, had ample time for preparing his defence and obtaining evidence in support thereof. No solicitor could reasonably suppose that the Court would allow a charge of misconduct against one of its officers to be withdrawn without investigation, especially in a case like the present where such solicitor joins in the application and agrees to give up a pro. note and pawn ticket which he has previously claimed to be entitled to hold. Nor was the evidence of Simerkie and Boodran at variance with the substantial allegations in the petition and counter-report, nor at the hearing of the petition was it suggested by the respondent that he had been taken by surprise or was unable to produce his evidence, nor was any application for a postponement made on that or any other ground. The Court is not satisfied that Mr. Belmonte was in any way taken by surprise and unable to anticipate what evidence would be required and thus unable to produce it. Hence the present application cannot be acceded to on that ground.

Nor in our opinion can it be granted on the ground that criminal proceedings for perjury have been instituted against Simerkie and Boodran. The Court has before it the facts established at the hearing of the petition, and cannot impugn or question the truthfulness of the witnesses to those facts, by declining to act on the evidence which they have given. Prima facie their evidence must be taken to be true, and unless very strong grounds are shewn to exist for deferring action, the Court must act on it without question. In the present case such grounds are not, we think, shewn. On the contrary, the Court in the interest of the public is bound, when misconduct is brought home to one of its officers, to take steps promptly to prevent any future misconduct on his part. To allow a solicitor, who has been proved guilty of the conduct brought to light in this case to continue to practise as a solicitor until criminal proceedings for perjury against two of the witnesses against him have been prosecuted to completion on the possibility that such proceedings may be successful would afford an opportunity for much wrong-doing and possible injury to members of the public, and such a course if ever justifiable would, in our opinion, require far stronger grounds than exist in this case.

The application make, therefore, cannot be granted, and the sole question remains, what punishment should be imposed. The Court cannot exclude from its consideration the facts that this solicitor was in 1897, struck off the Roll and not allowed to be re-admitted till 1904, and that the Court in the exercise of its summary jurisdiction over solicitors was asked to order him to pay to one of his clients moneys he had received and held for her and that such order was made though further proceedings in connection with that matter were not taken. In view of all the circumstances we regret to say that we have arrived at the conclusion that this Solicitor must be struck off the Roll.

APPELLATE JURISDICTION.

THIS 16TH DAY OF FEBRUARY, 1912.

HO-A-YUN, Appellant
versus
GIBBS, Respondent.

This is an appeal from the Stipendiary Magistrate of the Berbice Judicial District who in an action brought by the respondent, claiming $100 as damages for injuries sustained owing to the negligence of the appellant, gave judgment for the respondent for $74 and costs.

The reasons of appeal are (1) that there was no negligence on the part of the appellant and (2) that if even there was such negligence the respondent was guilty of contributory negligence which was the immediate cause of the accident.

The Magistrate finds on the evidence that a bridge 22 feet in length connects the appellant's shop with the road and that on the shop side there is an opening 2 feet wide and 8 feet in length which reduces the length of the bridge from this point to the road to 14 feet. Any one, therefore, going from the road into this shop would, after walking 14 feet on this bridge, come to this opening which extends in length over the remaining 8 feet of the bridge.

It is admitted by the appellant that on the night of 26th June last, the respondent fell into this opening and sustained certain injuries, and the evidence shows that at that time he was on his way to the shop to purchase lemonade.

The Magistrate further finds that the respondent's falling into this opening was due to its not being railed or fenced in, and that the bridge was not sufficiently lighted on the night in question.

The Solicitor for the appellant submits that the evidence shows two bridges each leading to different departments of the shop. The evidence does point to one bridge originally and that on the buildings being extended a second bridge was added and attached to the former. These two would seem now to form but one bridge, but whether there are one or two bridges does not affect the question as to the existence of the opening as already described.

There was evidence on which the Magistrate could find that the bridge was insufficiently lighted and the fact that on that bridge, by means of which customers were invited to enter the shop, there existed an opening 8 x 2 feet, points to negligence on the part of the appellant.
